Too many 'chiefs' in county government

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A watchdog commission says Los Angeles county government costs about $30 million per year more than it should and attributes the excesses to top-heavy administration and automatic pay increases.

In a report issued Wednesday, the Economy and Efficiency Commission said there are too many chiefs among the county's 82,000 employes. It also said that automatic pay increases push the average pay for employes above the prevailing income in private business.

"We estimate they account for at least $30 million in excess annual costs, or approximately 12 cents on the tax rate," the commission told the county board of supervisors.

The report is the second of a series of studies of county government prompted last year by the fiscal crisis in New York City.

The commission found a ratio of one or more supervisors to every five subordinates.

Under the county's five-step pay formula, employes in the middle range are supposed to receive wages equivalent to the prevailing wage in business.

The commission found that 58 per cent of all employes are on the fourth and fifth (higher) steps and that only 13 per cent are paid at the first and second levels. Because of that distribution, the panel said, county salaries are an average of 5.2 per cent higher than the third step.

The average increase for a county employe between each step is about 5.5 per cent plus whatever he and his colleagues win through bargaining, the report said.

"We are not evaluating or criticizing individuals or their pay levels relative to their responsibilities. They have no influence over the system or their own participation in it."

But, the report said, "We do criticize a system which automatically generates such high pay increase at all levels without regard to merit."

The commission said part of the reason that so many employes have stacked up at the top pay levels is because of the general hiring freeze over recent years.

The report says that $20 million could be saved by elimination of the five-step pay system but concedes that such a move would stir considerable opposition.

Another money-saving step, could be the reduction of supervisors, the commission said, noting that last year the county spent $25 for supervision of every $100 worth of nonsupervisory labor.

Federal pay hike too small —labor

WASHINGTON (AP) — An estimated 2.6 million federal civilian and military employes will be getting a pay increase beginning Friday that averages 4.83 per cent and is worth about $2.5 billion.

But labor spokesmen say it's not enough and it will cost votes for President Ford, who approved the pay hike Wednesday.

Ford ignored appeals for a greater increase that was recommeded by his government pay advisers.

The AFL-CIO's public employe department predicted that Ford's action will "dangerously accelerate the great employe unrest" among federal workers at all levels.

The pay hike does not affect the salaries of members of Congress, federal judges or highranking bureaucrats who earn more than $37,800 a year.

The Federal Employes Pay Council, composed of unions representing government workers, sought an 8.2 per cent across-the-board pay hike.

Council names Slaght, 24-year veteran of force, in split vote

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Richard Slaght, a 24-year veteran of the Pomona Police Department, was named the city's new police chief Wednesday by the Pomona City Council.

Slaght, 46, who has been acting police chief since James W. Richards was fired from the post earlier this month, was appointed to the position on a split vote of the council, with Councilmembers Benjamin Ochoa, Charles Bader and Georgia Grove casting votes for Slaght.

Mayor Ray Lepire voted against the appointment and Councilman Adrian Wright abstained.

The council has been in turmoil over the appointment of a new chief since Richards' dismissal, and Slaght admitted some surprise that the council had turned to him.

But, he said today, "I felt as qualified as anyone for the job and still do. I truly feel that with the cooperation of everyone involved we can move ahead. There is much work to be done. This is a fine organization with fine personnel."

Slaght said that he will emphasize better communication between the police and community.

"We have to go to the public more. The public will have to understand some of our problems, and we have to understand some of the public's problems and concerns in controlling crime in Pomona. We just have to work together," said Slaght.

Slaght's appointment is not likely to please all within the city police force, however.

When former Police Chief F. P. Wallick retired last March and Slaght was appointed acting police chief the first time, the Pomona Police Officers Association passed over Slaght and endorsed another Pomona officer, Lt. Denver L. Liming, for the post, possibly because of Slaght's reputation as a strict disciplinarian.

That action by the association was taken more than four months ago, before the appointment of Richards in July and his firing this month over embezzelment charges in Arvada, Colo.

Slaght joined the department in 1952. He was promoted to detective in 1956, sergeant in 1961, lieutenant in 1966 and captain in 1973.

Slaght and his wife, Pat, and daughter, Tracy, 14, reside in Claremont. Another daughter, Sharon, 20, lives in San Diego.

Medicare recipients to pay bigger hospitalization fees

WASHINGTON (AP) — The portion of hospital fees that 25 million Medicare beneficiaries have to pay out of their own pockets was boosted a record 19 per cent today by the Social Security Administration.

The hike, effective next Jan. 1, means that an elderly or disabled person entering a hospital in 1977 will be responsible for the first $124 of the initial bill, covering up to two months, compared with the present charge of $104.

Similar increases apply to the share of costs that must be borne by the patient for extended stays in a hospital or skilled nursing home.

Social Security Commisioner James B. Cardwell said the increase is necessary to keep pace with hospital costs, which have been shooting up at more than twice the overall cost of living.

Medicare covers all hospital charges for up to the first 60 days except for an amount which, in theory, represents the cost on the day of admission.

Under the federal formula designed to balance off inflation, the price of that first — and supposedly average — day goes up $20. In fact, however, the computations lag behind actual costs by about two years.

After the patient picks up the first $124 of his bill next year, Medicare will, as usual, pick up the balance through the 60th day.

But then further increases apply which, for some patients, could prove even more dear. They will have to pay $31 daily out of their own pockets for the 61st through the 90th day, up from the present $26 daily.

Post-hospital stays lasting more than 20 days in a skilled nursing home will require beneficiaries to pay $15.20 daily for the 21st through the 100th day, up from the present $13.

Medicare patients who must be hospitalized more than 90 consecutive days can draw upon their one-time-only lifetime reserve — an extra 60 days — but will have to pay $62 daily instead of the current $52.

The agency said the cost of Medicare hospital insurance is expected to rise from an overall $13.6 billion this year to $16.1 billion in 1977.

About 24.7 million persons are eligible for the benefits this year. They are expected to number 25.3 million next year.

Free of wrongdoing, says Ford

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford said today he is confident the current inquiry into his past campaign finances will demonstrate he is "free of any allegations" of impropriety and expressed hope the matter can be resolved quickly.

Perched on the side of his Oval Office desk, Ford told reporters he had never diverted any campaign contributions for his personal use.

The President was asked if a rash of news reports about the inquiry by the Watergate special prosecutor, coming in the midst of his campaign against Jimmy Carter, was troubling him.

Ford replied that he was not as concerned about it for political reasons as he was because of his "record of personal integrity."

"I'm very proud of my record of personal integrity," the President declared.

At the news conference, convened without advance notice, Ford declined to assess the political impact of the investigation, being conducted by Watergate special prosecutor Charles Ruff.

House overrides Ford veto

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted today to override President Ford's veto of a $56.6 billion appropriation bill for the departments of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare.

The vote was 312 to 93, 42 more than the two-thirds needed to override.

Ford had said the bill was inflationary, calling for $4 billion more spending than he had recommended for the departments.

Supporters of the appropriation said Ford's budget made no provision for rising costs and would have forced cuts in progams for children, the disadvantaged and the elderly

The House then moved toward consideration of a revenue sharing measure that could be the key to determine whether Congress meets its weekend deadline for adjournment.

Ford said Wednesday he will sign or veto two different jobs bills only after Congress acts on the revenue sharing measure, for which he has pushed hard.

Women better able to take work stress

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The social stress of a daily job, long thought to be responsible for the susceptibility of men to heart disease, has not had the same effect on women, says an expert in coronary medicine.

Dr. William Hazzard, a researcher at the University of Washington, told a symposium of the American Heart Association Wednesday that although more and more women are facing the pressures of the working world, they still have a "remarkable resistance to coronary disease" and now outlive men longer than ever.

The new evidence has left researchers baffled about female resistance to coronary disease.

Hazzard said another popular theory, that the female hormone estrogen helped combat heart disease, has recently been discounted.

"For a while, we were even giving estrogen to men in hopes of preventing a second heart attack. It didn't work," he said.

Aside from old age, being male is the biggest contributing factor to heart disease in Western societies, Hazzard said.

Men are four times as likely as women to suffer heart disease in middle age as women, he said. The longevity gap between the sexes — an American woman's average life span is now 76, compared with 68 for men — is ever-widening.

It had been widely believed among scientists that males in industrialized nations were subjected to more socio-economic stress than women were, and were therefore more prone to heart ailments.

Hazzard said scientists believed that one solution might be "to ease some of the sociological factors and put less emphasis on all the machismo jazz."

But many women have now entered the anxiety-ridden world of business, Hazzard said, and there is no evidence they are any more susceptible to heart disease than they ever were.

In fact, he added, when heart disease rates began to decline in the last few years, the decline among women was much more dramatic than among men.

Certain factors — the use of birth control pills, for example — increase the chance of heart disease among women, Hazzard said, but the effect cannot yet be measured accurately.

"It may turn out that women who took the pill tend to die younger," Hazzard said, "but we won't know for many years."

He said the study of that factor will be complicated because women who take the pill tend to smoke cigarettes, and smoking also contributes to heart disease.

What's Gov. Brown been up to lately?

Freeway fight on horizon?

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. appears headed for a bitter confrontation with the state Highway Commission over a California trademark: the freeway.

The dispute has all the markings of a classic political battle involving Democrats and Republicans, Brown's famous era-of-limits philosophy and a debate over whether the state should continue to stress new roadway construction.

The commission set the stage for the dispute last Friday when it approved a six-year highway plan that included more funding for freeways and other roadways than the administration wanted.

Brown's top transportation advisor, Donald Burns, said Wednesday that the administration would prepare a 1977-78 highway budget based on its own plan — not the commission's — and ask the commission to adopt it next month.

"The epic of unlimited freeways and the attempt to pour cement from one end of the state to the other, that's over."

Coastline bill signed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Beginning next year, use of California's 1,070-mile shoreline will be restricted by a new law aimed at halting urban sprawl in largely undeveloped beach areas.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. signed this landmark legislation, which takes effect Jan. 1, and 20 other environmental bills at a ceremony in his office Wednesday.

"...It is for not only the people who are in California today, but their children and their grandchildren and generations to come to enjoy," the Democratic governor said.

At the hour-long ceremony, Brown shuffled over 100 backers of the bills in and out of the room, including a group of chanting Indians in leather and feather costumes who performed ceremonial dances.

Despite developer opposition, the California Legislature approved the bill in the last days of the 1975-76 session. It creates a permanent coastal commission with veto power over development.

Prisoner Ed bill vetoed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown jr. has vetoed a bill expanding college education programs for prisoners, sparking a protest from a liberal legislator.

Assemblyman John Vasconcellos, a San Jose Democrat who backed the bill, commented Wednesday: "This is one more piece of the sign on prison doors: 'Abandon hope, all ye who enter here'."

Assemblyman Dixon Arnett, R-Redwood City, sponsored the $250,000 bill expanding college programs inside and outside prisons and California Youth Authority facilities, and for parolees.

The Democratic governor said the state already spends $16 million for prisoner education. But a legislative aide said all but about $300,000 of that is for reading, arithmetic and other basic subjects.

"There are a lot of people with high school diplomas or the equivalent, who are going to be in for five more years with nothing to do," said Bruce Fuller, a consultant to Vasconcellos' Postsecondary Education subcommittee.

Opposition to dog racing

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. says he opposes greyhound racing and Prop. 13, the November ballot initiative that would legalize betting on it in California.

Opposition to the measure was also announced Wednesday by Assemblyman Howard Berman and Sen. David Roberti, the Democratic floor leaders of both houses.

Brown was asked for his position on Prop. 13 at a bill-signing news conference.

"I'm against dog racing," he said. "It's a questionable proposition." He didn't elaborate.

Berman, of Beverly Hills, and Roberti, of Los Angeles, called a news conference to attack the measure at length.

Berman called Prop. 13 "a blatant ripoff" that he said was drafted primarily to enrich its main sponsor, George Hardie, who heads a dog racing company.

Deadline dates in the measure would allow only Hardie to qualify for a license, Berman said.

Snags in the prisoner exchange program may raise 'false hopes'

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Lt. Gov. Mervyn Dymally says the proposed American-Mexican prisoner exchange treaty "may raise false hopes" because there appear to be snags in it.

Dymally, in Washington meeting with representatives of several top federal agencies Wednesday, released the statement through his Sacramento office.

He cited apparent dilemmas in the proposed treaty, which he said would cover only the federal prisoners in both countries. He said the proposal "does not purport to address the question of treatment of Mexican citizens in state and local institutions on this side of the border, or our citizens in similar institutions down there."

He recommended that California pursue its own efforts "to alleviate prisoner problems" on both sides.

Dymally, cochairman of the Commission of the Californias, recently toured Mexican prisons, and acted as host to Mexican officials doing the same in California.

The purpose of the commission is to maintain friendly relations with the Mexican states of Baja California and Baja California del Sur, which are also members. Dymally proposes a similar bilateral commission on the prisoner problem, the members to include the American and Mexican border states.

He described what he said were "numerous dilemmas" in the treaty:

—Guilt vs. Innocence: "Many Americans in Mexican jails swear by their innocence and probably are going to object to trading prison time there for here for crimes they say they did not commit. The same can be true of Mexican nationals in our jails," Dymally said.

—State sovereignty: Dymally said this is the question of whether the federal government can trade prisoners in state institutions, such as California prisons, and whether state permission would be required.

Harrises indicted

OAKLAND (AP) — William and Emily Harris, underground companions of Patricia Hearst, have been indicted for the Symbionese Liberation Army kidnaping of the newspaper heiress 2½ years ago.

Shortly before the Alameda County Grand Jury returned the indictment Wednesday, Miss Hearst's attorneys filed a motion for a new trial on the armed bank robbery for which she has been sentenced to seven years in prison.

The indictment accuses the Harrises of kidnaping for ransom with bodily harm in the Feb. 4, 1974 abduction of Miss Hearst from her Berkeley apartment. The maximum penalty would be life in prison without possibility of parole.

Bail for the Harrises was set at $300,000 each, with arraignment set for Friday in Alameda County Superior Court.

By clean air bill

Pollutant ban balked

By JANET STAIHAR
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — House-Senate conferees Wednesday night agreed on a compromise clean air bill that would delay auto exhaust standards on two pollutants for one year.

The agreement came near midnight as both sides fought for several days on whether to loosen or tighten emission standards for cars.

House conferees had hoped for more relaxed regulations, but the Senate held out for, and won, more stringent regulations than the auto industry wanted.

The bill must now go back to the full membership of both chambers for a final vote. Trouble could still await it as opponents may try to kill it before the scheduled congressional adjournment Friday night.

Under the proposal, 1978-model cars would remain at the level of 1977 auto emission standards: 1.5 grams per mile for hydrocarbons and 15 grams per mile for carbon monoxide.

Beginning in model year 1979, hydrocarbons would have to go down to the statutory standards of .41 grams per mile and carbon monoxide down to 3.4 grams per mile.

The amount of nitrogen oxides allowed would be 2 grams per mile from model year 1977 through model year 1980. But in model years 1981 through 1985, nitrogen oxides would have to dip to 1 gram per mile. Under the bill, nitrogen oxide emissions would not in those years have to meet the statutory standard of .4 grams per mile.

The auto emission regulations had been one of the major stumbling blocks in the clean air legislation.

Industry supporters sought looser controls to give car manufacturers more time to meet goals for curtailing exhaust emissions. They cited lack of technology and damage that strict regulation might do to employment in Detroit.

On the other hand, environmentalists held out for the tougher controls to guard human health and clean air.

Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., had led the battle for relaxation of standards. Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., chairman of the Commerce Committee's health and environment subcommittee, is expected to push for passage of the compromise package.

House Commerce Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., pushed for a resolution of the bill with the leader of the Senate conferees, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine. Staggers said it had been worked on in House and Senate committees since March 1975.

One of the opponents of the bill said before leaving the late night conference: "It'll be a fight on the floor now."

Court rules abortions not murder

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — A federal judge has ruled doctors and patients involved in abortions may not be prosecuted for murder under a new state law which defines when a human life begins.

U.S. District Court Judge Lansing Mitchell's ruling came Wednesday in a suit by the American Civil Liberties Union in Louisiana on behalf of Dr. Calvin Jackson, medical director of Orleans Women's Clinic.

The law, approved by the legislature in July, defines a person as a "human being from the moment of fertilization and implantation." Its sponsor, Sen. Erle Edwards Barham, said it would bring intentional abortion within the state's murder law.

But Mitchell ruled recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions prevented Louisiana from prosecuting doctors and patients involved in abortions.

Gov. Edwin Edwards had said he thought the bill was unconstitutional when he signed it.

Jackson said others knew it was unconstitutional as well.

"It was a political move," he said after the decision. "It was a waste of the public's money."

Guerrilla losses heavy to Syrians

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Syrian troops and tanks forced Palestinian guerrillas out of a 20-square-mile salient east of Beirut today in a major loss for the guerrillas and their Lebanese leftist allies in Lebanon's civil war.

A guerrilla communique conceded the fall of all positions held by Palestinians and Moslem leftist militia north of the vital Beirut-Damascus highway.

Witnesses said only sporadic shots were heard in the area as Syrian forces mopped up in pine woods on the slopes of Mount Lebanon, a resort area 15 miles east of the capital.

The two-day Syrian operation touched off a new flurry of Arab mediation efforts to arrange negotiations for an overall settlement of the sectarian conflict.

Arab League mediator Hassan Sabri Kholi traveled to Damascus with an offer from the guerrilla-leftist alliance to negotiate an immediate ceasefire with the Syrians and rightwing Lebanese Christians.

Pound drop may evoke street riots

LONDON (AP) — Without help from the International Monetary fund (IMF) to prop up the pound, Britain would have to endure economic policies so savage "I think they would produce riots in the streets," says Chancellor of the Exchequer Denis Healey.

"I think it would mean three million unemployed, and living standards would fall by at least five per cent," Healey said in a television interview late Wednesday.

The pound opened today at $1.66, down from Tuesday's closing $1.665, but it later climbed to $1.6685.

Woman raped in motel room

An alleged prostitute late Wednesday morning said she was raped in her motel room by a man claiming to be a police officer, Pomona police reported.

The woman, 19, said she was walking near the motel on E. Mission Boulevard when the man approached her and she told him to follow her into the apartment. When they got inside, she said, he pulled a badge and threatened her with arrest. She said he had a pistol, handcuffs and a carrier for extra ammunition on his belt.

Police said the young woman told them that a friend of hers, also a prostitute, had been attacked a week ago by a man also claiming to be a policeman. Pomona police said they believe the man is not a police officer.

The man was described as white, about 30, 5 feet 8 weighing 180 pounds. He wore a plaid jacket, brown trousers and sunglasses.

Trio robbed

Three persons were robbed of their cash early today by three young men who threatened them with a pistol and a hunting knife in a Pomona laundromat.

The victims, Jim P. Donavan, 34, his wife, Roma, 22, and Maurice E. Price, 41, said they were washing and drying clothes shortly after midnight when the youth with the pistol entered the front door at 630 E. Holt Ave. and the two others entered through the rear door. The victims said the three threatened to kill them if they did not surrender their cash.

After getting about $160, the three robbers fled out the rear door. The one with the revolver was described as black, between 16 and 20, 5 feet 4 weighing 140 pounds. He wore a knit cap and all three covered their faces with scarves.

Remains critical

A Pomona man who was shot three times outside a Pomona tavern Aug. 27 remained in critical condition today in Pomona Valley Community Hospital's intensive care unit.

The victim, John Aaron Smith, 24, was beaten and shot in the chest and leg on the parking lot of the Palms tavern at 903 E. Mission Blvd. that night. Witnesses said he was pulled from his car and attacked by two men.

Police originally arrested two men in connection with the incident, but released them without charge while they continued their investigation of the attack.

Burglars strike

Brian McCarthy, president of Pacific Air Products Co., 325 W. Main St., Ontario, told police that burglars stole six long aluminum remnants from his company Wednesday night. Value of the material was $1,500.

Residential burglary

Two homes in the 1000 block of West Granada Street, Ontario, were burglarized during a 12-hour period police said.

A resident called officers at 2:30 a.m. to report a light was on in her neighbor's house. The neighbor is on vacation. Officers arrived at 1023 W. Granada St. to find that burglars entered by breaking a bedroom window and took a stereo and television set.

Police said they would attempt to locate the vacationing owners.

Minutes later, officers discovered the rear window was broken at the home at 1029 W. Granada St., possibly by the same burglars, they said.

Burglary foiled

After spending hours punching a hole through the wall at the Mi Taco restaurant, 1226 W. 7th St., Upland early today two would-be burglars fled when they were discovered by janitors.

Police said the burglars were after a safe inside the building and had drilled a 2½-foot hole in the stucco wall next to the restroom, before discovered.

Janitors told police they chased the two men to the San Bernardino Freeway then lost them in the bushes.

Nixon version of Watergate due

NEW YORK (AP) — Richard M. Nixon has not yet written the section of his memoirs dealing with the Watergate scandal and therefore a published report that he will maintain that he is innocent of any wrongdoing in the affair is "false," a spokesman for Nixon says.

In its Wednesday editions, The New York Times quoted knowledgeable publishing sources in Europe and the United States as saying that Nixon would depict Watergate as a partisan battle, with himself as the victim of enemies out to bring him down.

But Franklin Gannon, director of research for Nixon's memoirs, said in a statement released in San Clemente, Calif.: "The story is false because (former) President Nixon has not yet written the section of his book dealing with Watergate. Only Richard Nixon knows what he is going to say about Watergate."

The Times had no immediate comment on Gannon's statement, but it had said in its story that its source saw 164 pages of manuscript dealing with Watergate and Nixon's last two years in office.

The Times account said Nixon will express regret that he did not question his aides more closely about the Watergate break-in and will admit to an error in judgment, but that he will deny personal responsibility.

One of the convicted Watergate conspirators, Jeb Stuart Magruder, took exception to reports of Nixon's reported discussion of Watergate.

"To my own direct knowledge, he was involved in the coverup of Watergate," Magruder told a Park College lecture audience Wednesday night. "He conspired to obstruct justice like the rest of us, and he is guilty of perjury to the American people when he told them he was innocent."

Magruder, former deputy director of Nixon's re-election committee, served seven months in federal prison after his Watergate conviction.

"Mr. Nixon is in isolation at San Clemente now," Magruder said. "I feel sorry for him. It is a little plusher than what I had, but he's still a prisoner."

In London, meanwhile, veteran U.S. Diplomat Averell Harriman said Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev still admires Nixon and is puzzled about why he had to resign.

"They got along so well," Harriman said of Nixon and Brezhnev.

"He doesn't understand what President Nixon did in the United States, or Watergate," Harriman said of the Soviet leader. "He only thinks of the progress they made together."

Harriman, 84, is a former ambassador to Moscow.

Viking provides new data

PASADENA (AP) — Scientists have sequestered themselves with a batch of new data from Viking 2 that may provide the final answer to the question of life on Mars.

Viking 2 sent results from its first organic chemistry experiment Wednesday, the critical probe on which the mission's quest for life has been pegged.

Viking team members were expected to spend nearly a day deciphering the information and scheduled a news briefing on the results for late today.

The experiment seeks the little carbon-based compounds that are the foundations of all living things on Earth. Without the compounds, it would be difficult for scientists to concede the presence of life on the Red Planet.

If any are found, it seemed certain scientists would declare the discovery of life on Mars.

The Viking 1 and Viking 2 landers have been probing the Martian surface for a combined period of nearly three months. The biology experiments have suggested the presence of life or something very much like it.

Only the absence of organic materials has caused scientists to balk at naming their findings life.

"Throughout, in the biology experiments, they've found what they expected to find if there was life," said Viking spokesman Nick Panagakos.

So, the focus of the entire mission's search for life on another planet centers on the machinations of a complex instrument called a gas chromatograph-mass spectrometer (GCMS), the organic chemistry probe.

The Viking 2 robot displayed a flair for drama by delaying the climactic moment of truth twice in the last two weeks. The organics experiment was delayed initially because the robot's soil-scooping arm jammed, preventing delivery of any red dirt to the GCMS.

Then, scientists tried to shorten the odds against finding organics and delayed the search again, while they scoured the digging area for the perfect spot.

The arm finally reached out and scratched the surface and on Sunday, it delivered the dirt and the GCMS began whirring away, man's hopes of discovering extraterrestial life riding in its miniature laboratory.

If the current search for organic compounds fails, scientists plan to order the robot to tip over a boulder and sample the sheltered soil beneath.

Markets in offer to employes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Teamster Union officials were to meet today to decide whether or not to recommend acceptance of what supermarket chains say is their final contract offer to drivers and warehousemen in Southern California and the Las Vegas area.

Negotiators for the Food Employers Council representing the large market chains made the proposal late Wednesday but no details were disclosed.

Representatives of the 18 Teamster locals involved scheduled a meeting to determine what action to take on the pact, union spokesman Jim Peck said.

He said there was no comment on the proposal since union leaders had not had the opportunity to analyze it.

However it was reported that union officials were expected to recommend rejection.

Robert K. Knox, president of the employer group, would not disclose details of the offer but called it "a very generous proposal."

He urged Teamsters to come to a quick decision on it.

The contract of 10,000 Teamster drivers and warehousemen expired Sept. 5.

Negotiations began last month but Peck said the contract offer was the FEC's first specific proposal.

FEC spokesman Bob Voight said negotiations with a federal mediator Wednesday marked the first time money was discussed. Previously the talks reportedly were stalled on work issues.

Union members have approved a strike, but must give 72 hours notice.

Stores involved are between San Luis Obispo and the Mexican border in Southern California and the Las Vegas area of Nevada.

Employers said drivers currently are paid up to $7.10 an hour and warehousemen $6.90 an hour. The union wants wage and fringe benefits totaling an additional $4.93 an hour over three years, the FEC said.

In 1973 the Teamsters and Amalgamated Meatcutters Union representing 9,000 butchers joined in a five-week strike that disrupted operations in the area but caused no serious shortages.

The butchers' contract expires Nov. 7 and Fox accused the Teamsters of delaying so the same strategy could be used again. But he told the Teamsters the FEC would not agree to any joint bargaining with both unions.

Senate receives Lloyd wilderness study bill

The Senate has received a bill passed by the House on Monday and sponsored by Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., to authorize a study on the creation of a Sheep Mountain Wilderness in the Angeles and San Bernardino national forests.

"If this legislation is enacted into law — and the first major hurdle has been cleared — then a two-year study emphasizing public input will be undertaken concerning the creation of the wilderness area out of 52,000 acres of national forest land," Lloyd said.

"In my support of this bill, and in my testimony before the appropriate committees, I have emphasized that the public must be involved in the final determination.

"Because wilderness status forbids the use of motor vehicles or commercial development, I particularly want the study to consider the interests of nearby ski areas which currently are outside the boundaries of the proposed study area," Lloyd explained.

"The ski areas of Mt. Baldy and Wrightwood are enjoyed by many thousands of Southern Californians annually and it is important not to encroach upon this use.

By authorizing a two-year study, Lloyd said all of the variables can be taken into consider-ation in public hearings which will be held and all interests will have ample opportunity to state their views.

"Also, the proposed sheep mountain wilderness contains rugged and natural terrain that must be preserved for the 10 million people who live within an hours drive and for the endangered bighorn sheep that live there."

L.A. supervisor to address League

Edmund D. Edelman, Los Angeles County supervisor, will discuss county government reform when he speaks at the annual fall kickoff luncheon of the League of Women Voters of Claremont Saturday at Memorial Park.

Edelman will stress propositions A and B on the November ballot.

Proposition A will provide the county with a mayor, elected by the voters.

Proposition B will expand the board of supervisors from five to nine members.

A former Los Angeles City Councilman, Edelman was elected to the board in 1974 and serves the third district, about 1.4 million people living as far west as Westwood and as far east as Monterey Park.

Edelman sponsored the legislation which put the propositions on the ballot.

He believes the county's government is an outmoded system crying for reform, and the propositions are excellent vehicles to bring about the reform.

Edelman said that the mayor, watching over the board, will be in a position to control the skyrocketing spending that has marked county government here for the past several years.

Annette Crowell, who chaired a league study on county government last year, said league members agree it is ludicrous to run a county of seven million people and a $3.3 billion annual budget and 84,000 employes with a committee of five.

The luncheon on Robbins Court at Memorial Park is open to the public by reservation.

Information on the meeting and reservations for lunch are available by phoning Mrs. Sara Zwemer at 626-3725.

17 in running for MAC council seats

Diamond Bar residents are counting their blessings that only 17 candidates are on the ballot for upcoming elections to the proposed Municipal Advisory Council (MAC), known as Proposition WW.

One more would have cost them a lot of money, $6,000 worth.

According to Ted Staley, a Diamond Bar Homeowners Association member and himself a candidate for one of the four seats on the MAC council, had one more candidate filed for the election all ballots would have had to have been counted by hand.

Apparently the ballots prepared by Los Angeles County which are counted by computer only have room for 17 names. Had only one more person applied to get on the ballot the county would have had to hold the election with different forms.

Staley, speaking before a meeting of the Diamond Bar Homeowners Association on the status of the upcoming MAC election, joked that the association had trouble raising the $2,000 dollars required to hold the election with computer ballots.

"We finally raised the $2,000 the day before the deadline," he said, "I don't know where we would have gotten $6,000 more."

If voters approve Proposition WW on Nov. 2, Diamond Bar will be the first community in the county to have a Municipal Advisory Council.

The four elected members and one appointed by county Supervisor Pete Schabarum would serve in an advisory capacity to the county Board of Supervisors on matters of concern to residents of Diamond Bar.

The council would have no veto power over decisions made by the supervisors, but proponents believe that MAC would at least give Diamond Bar an official voice before the board.

Man charged with hiring his brother to commit murder

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A man involved in a publicized Ohio case 15 years ago has been charged with hiring his brother to kill the son of his recently divorced wife and to use acid to blind a woman friend of his former spouse.

Arthur Clinton Nebb, 54, of Huntington Park, was arrested and charged Monday, then released on $10,000 bail.

He was to be arraigned today on one count of solicitation to commit murder and one count of solicitation to commit assault with great bodily injury by use of caustic chemicals.

Nebb was involved in a precedent-setting 1961 Ohio case over the shooting deaths of his then-estranged first wife and a male companion and served a brief portion of a one to 20 year prison sentence.

Nebb moved to California after his prison release and had been working as a mechanic in Lynwood, authorities said.

According to district attorney's investigators, Nebb offered a brother $7,000 to shoot his ex-wife's son, a marine stationed at China Lake, and an additional $3,000 to pour acid into the eyes of the woman who is a close friend of his former wife.

Investigator Diane Eagan said Nebb asked the brother to first physically assault and batter the female unconscious, pour acid in her eyes and "then poke them out." She said the second job was to kill the son with a high-powered rifle.

Nebb's arrest climaxed a three-week investigation which began after the brother, whom authorities refused to identify, came to California from another state to discuss plans for the incidents, then informed the FBI which brought the case to the district attorney's office, officials said.

Clayton Anderson, assistant chief of the district attorney's bureau of investigation, also refused to name the intended victims, saying that to do so might endanger them.

Nebb was charged in 1961 with the shooting deaths of his first wife, Bernice, and a male companion, Estel Stepp, in Columbus, Ohio. Following his surrender a month after the shootings, Nebb went through a trial in which the judge allowed a state psychiatrist to hypnotize Nebb in the courtroom for the purpose of recalling events which led to the shootings.

Nebb testified he had gone to his estranged wife's home to give his daughter a present and became enraged when he saw the woman and a man enter a bedroom and remove their clothes.

Nebb testified that he called an attorney and a friend to witness the two together. He insisted he did not plan to shoot either his wife or her lover, but to only hold a gun on them until witnesses arrived.

He then testified that the wife grabbed the gun and he shot her and Stepp.

The prosecutor allowed Nebb to change his plea to manslaughter after hearing the hypnotized version of the story.

Claremont mayor elected treasurer

Claremont Mayor Bertye Smith has been elected treasurer of the Los Angeles County Division of the League of California Cities.

BERTYE SMITH

She joins on the board Gilbert Smith, president, councilman from Carson; Ken Chappel; first vice-president, councilman from West Covina; and Tom Clark, second vice-president, and mayor of Long Beach.

This is the first time in Claremont history that a local councilman has been a representative on the division's executive board.

Mrs. Smith is only the second woman ever to serve on the executive board.

The first was Los Angeles City Councilwoman Pat Russell.

Mrs. Smith said she is pleased with her election and appreciates the opportunity to serve the 78 Los Angeles County cities in her new capacity.

"I strongly support the activities of the League and believe that cities derive many benefits by working together to solve local government problems," she said.

Mrs. Smith explained that a major role of the League is as a "watch dog" insuring city government rights at county, state and federal levels.

Harrison faces suit

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Beatle George Harrison has been sued for $10 million by A & M Records. The Superior Court suit also seeks to dissolve the Dark Horse record company.

The civil complaint filed Tuesday also seeks injunctions to prevent Harrison or his business manager Denis O'Brien from destroying any records of the, partnership between Dark Horse and A & M.

It also seeks to prevent the ex-Beatle from performing for any record company other than A & M until the civil action is resolved.

The suit charges that Harrison reneged on a May 15, 1974 partnership agreement which called for him to record four solo albums. It also said A & M agreed to absorb any losses generated by Dark Horse during the five-year partnership.

A & M attorney Howard Smith said Harrison has refused to pay $1 million advanced to Dark Horse against royalties to be earned by Harrison. The money was to be repaid if Harrison did not deliver the first record by last July, the suit contends.

Asthma linked to cockroaches

CHICAGO (AP) — Cockroaches may be the unsuspected cause of many cases of asthma, especially among the urban poor, a Chicago medical researcher says.

The researcher, Dr. Benn Kang, has found that a high percentage of asthmatic patients are allergic to cockroaches.

Only relatively recently have cockroaches been suspected to be a cause of asthma, and Dr. Kang said many doctors would fail to recognize these insects as a cause.

The asthmatic patient who lives in a place infested with cockroaches will have repeated attacks of asthma, she said.

In a report in the Journal of Allergy and Clinical Immunology, she suggested that after cockroaches die and disintegrate, they become part of the house dust which is inhaled.

Dr. Kang said in an interview that previous studies have shown that patients from overcrowded living conditions have a much higher frequency of allergic reactions to cockroach derivatives in skin tests than do those from affluent suburbs.

She reported that when, in her experimental study, 22 patients suffering from asthma inhaled cockroach derivatives, 16 of them had asthmatic seizures. And 13 of the 16 had delayed as well as immediate attacks.

Dr. Kang said she since has increased her study to include 60 patients, and that the results were the same.

She is giving patients desensitization treatments to eliminate or reduce the allergic reaction to cockroaches. This treatment is similar to ragweed and other desensitization treatments.

Hamlets hire traveling city manager

EDDYVILLE, Iowa (AP) — Government is getting more complicated these days for small towns like Eddyville. So town officials joined six other communities and hired a traveling city manager.

"These seven cities got together and realized they were all about the same size and may have similar problems," said Gene Vatter, who serves as city manager for the towns ranging in population from 192 to 970.

"After about a year, they realized that just getting together wasn't solving all the problems," he said. So they sought help from their regional planning council and hired Vatter for $15,500 a year.

In addition to working on problems where part-time city officials have no expertise, Vatter coordinates programs between the towns, such as joint purchases and equipment sharing.

"They can also share personnel," Vatter said. "If skilled personnel are available for water treatment and liquid waste, there is no reason these personnel can't be shared by more than one city.

"It gives these small cities the power of a much larger city when they group together like this."

Eddyville Mayor Robert Richards says Vatter is well worth the money to his community, population 970, especially in finding federal grants to help the town operate.

"We hired a new city maintenance man" with federal money Vatter found, Richards said.

"Now he's working on revenue-sharing for us. He seems to think he can get $1,000 to $2,000 more a year," Richards said. "This year he is going to cost us about $700. If this revenue-sharing goes through, he'll more than pay our share towards his salary."

The mayor said that if Vatter were not around, some of the work he does would go to the city clerk, "but a lot of it would be overlooked.

"He gets around, talks to a lot of people. The city clerk is confined to his office. He doesn't get to talk to people like this traveling city manager does."

Vatters' seven towns, which also include Blakesburg, Lucas, Lovilia, Melrose, Russell and Williamson, are located mostly in a two-county area of southeastern Iowa, but he still spends much of his time traveling.

"Usually, I'm driving about 3,000 miles a month going to the cities that are located from six miles to 20 miles apart," he said.

"I'm in there working with these cities, attempting to help them help themselves," Vatter said. "I'm trying not to make them dependent on me."

Crime big problem, says Pomonan poll

Crime in general and youth-gang crime specifically are the primary problems facing the South Pomona community, according to a citizen's survey taken by the Beta Center in Pomona.

Thomas Ray, assistant director of the Center, reported 435 of the 703 residents completing a questionnaire listed crime as the major problem in their neighborhoods.

Crime was the overwhelming response to the survey question asking residents to list the three major problems facing the community. Crime accounted for 61.9 per cent of all responses.

The next two most common responses were need for jobs and need for youth activities.

Other needs listed by the residents included counseling services for medical and financial needs.

Ray said the survey was taken earlier this year at the Sacred Heart Catholic Church in both English and Spanish. Residents answering the questionnaire ranged in age from 10 to 89.

Mayor Hondo Crouch succumbs in Texas

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (AP) — Hondo Crouch, the Texan who bought a ghost town and reopened its saloon because he got tired of driving through without being able to stop for a beer, is dead at 60.

Crouch, the "mayor" of Luckenbach, a dusty hamlet with no residents, died at a hospital here Monday after suffering a heart attack. He was stricken at the home of Ken and Kathy Morgan, the co-owners of Luckenbach.

Since the Morgans and Crouch lived on ranches approximately 18 miles from the central Texas community, nobody really lived in Luckenbach. But its population on weekends was said to range up to 3,000, depending on the weather and how much beer Mrs. Morgan had ordered to be sold to the visitors.

Survivors include two sons and two daughters.

Former beret has grit, beats death

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — "Most people would have given up and died," said Deputy Sheriff Gene Hanners. But John E. Vihtelic, a 27-year-old former medic in the Green Berets, survived being pinned under a car for two weeks at the foot of a cliff.

He rigged a line from electric wiring and metal strips in the car and used it to drag his T-shirt from a nearby stream. Then he wrung the water from the shirt for drinking.

He was in stable condition today at Emanuel Hospital, where doctors were considering amputating his crushed leg.

Vihtelic, from Grand Rapids, Mich., declined to talk with reporters about his experience Tuesday. He said he would talk about it, but only after the condition of his leg improves. He did describe his ordeal to sheriff's deputies in Skamania County, Wash.

He was driving on a gravel Forest Service road Sept. 11 or 12 when his car plunged over a 75-foot embankment, according to Elaine Webb of the Skamania County sheriff's department.

She said the car rolled over several times, eventually landing on its top, pinning Vihtelic's leg to a log trapped beneath the vehicle.

He was trapped "half-in and half-out of the car" for two weeks before he managed to free himself, she said.

"It is a fantastic survival story," said Deputy Hanners of Clackamas County, Ore., who coordinated an extensive 12-day search for the missing man. Clackamas County became involved in the search after a missing persons report was filed on Vihtelic.

"He survived because he kept a cool head and used ingenuity," Mrs. Webb said.

GOOD POLITICAL CONDUCT — Former British Prime Minister Edward Heath, right, talks with members of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra in Chicago this week during a rehearsal. He was preparing to conduct the orchestra at a charity performance.

Ruff unruffled, continues probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — For a year, Charles F.C. Ruff has held the job that once belonged to Archibald Cox and Leon Jaworski, that of special Watergate prosecutor. But few Americans knew or cared that the office still existed.

Now, in the heat of the election campaign, the special Watergate prosecution force is being mentioned again — in reports that contributions to President Ford's congressional campaigns are being reinvestigated.

Under Ruff, whose immediate predecessor was Henry S. Ruth, the office has simmered along with a three-lawyer staff and a number of campaign contributions cases, the best known of which was money funneled to politicians by Gulf Oil.

Ruff, who teaches contracts and criminal procedures courses at Georgetown University, works at the office only part-time, allowing the two other lawyers to carry the load.

They are still investigating Gulf Oil contributions and other cases in the campaign contributions area. No one at the prosecutor's office will confirm it, but the others are said to include a look at records of the Kent County, Mich., Republican party to determine whether Ford illegally diverted political contributions to his own personal use by "laundering" the money through the local GOP organization.

Under Ruff, millionaire oilman Armand Hammer pleaded guilty to illegal contributions, former Postmaster Gen. Marvin Watson pleaded guilty in the same case and so did Rep. James Jones, D-Okla.

Claude Wild, a former Gulf lobbyist, was indicted for violating contributions laws and then acquitted after a nonjury trial.

LIKE THE OLD DAYS — These Lincoln, Neb., children are going to school in classroom that has eight grades just like the old days. Union College, a private, liberal arts school, decided the needs of teachers who take jobs in rural or multi-grade church schools were not being met so a special multi-grade classroom was set aside for both teachers and students.

On 'redlining'

Brown sets study panel

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Brown administration has set up what it calls the nation's first boards of inquiry on redlining, the practice of home loan discrimination on the basis of neighborhood.

The announcement this week said the boards will hear complaints in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

The agency adopted regulations earlier this year against redlining, which it defined as "the capricious denial of home loans based on neighborhood factors regardless of the applicant's credit worthiness or soundness of the structure."

Burns said redlining is most often found where minority persons reside, and it contributes to the deterioration of neighborhoods.

The boards consist of three members, one each representing the public, the government and the home financing industry.

In Los Angeles they are: Public — Jonathan Lehrer-Graiwer, 30, a staff lawyer at the Western Center on Law and Poverty; Government — Linda Katzman, 28, state Department of Real Estate investigator; Industry — Tom O'Neil, 45, executive vice president of Financial Appraisals, Inc.

In San Francisco they are: Public — Betsy A. Collard, 36, Mountain View, vice president of Midpeninsula Citizens for Fair Housing; Government — Thelma Watson, 32, minorities marketing-action officer for the California Housing Finance Agency; Industry — John L. Carr, 44, Orinda, executive vice president and general counsel of Citizens Savings and Loan Association.

May spend $282 million

House ponders garbage probe

WASHINGTON (AP) — Before you throw those egg shells, coffee grounds and orange peels in the trash can, stop and think about this:

The House of Representatives is willing to spend $282.5 million for a national effort to find something useful that can be made from garbage like that.

The House has passed a bill that would supply the money for research aimed at finding ways to use wastes that now burden most municipal governments. The bill now needs Senate approval.

Most Americans haven't given much thought to trash, except to notice if it hasn't been picked up. And the garbageman has just been some guy who runs over your trash can twice a week.

Still, a very few people already have found a variety of highly useful, although not always esthetic, uses for their garbage.

For instance, in Richmond, Va., houses were made from recycled trash several years ago, but potential homebuyers were somewhat wary about living in something made of compressed things somebody else had thrown away. And newspapers not long ago told of a man who built a house out of his collection of beer bottles.

Rep. Fred Rooney, D-Pa., who managed the garbage bill in the House, said one goal would be finding ways to use garbage as a source of fuel after proper processing and treatment.

Consider this: The Federal Energy Administration said Monday the nation's dependence on foreign oil is still increasing, with imports in the first six months of the year up by 16.7 per cent.

Some energy experts say Americans produce in garbage each year a potential energy source equivalent to 290 million barrels of low sulphur fuel oil or 5 per cent of current domestic oil consumption. And they say total municipal refuse collection could generate 6 per cent of the nation's total annual electric production.

But with $282.5 million at stake there should be lots of other classy suggestions about what to do with all those empty milk cartons, gum wrappers and cigarette butts that litter the homestead.

For instance:

—How about a new automobile made from gnawed chicken bones that runs on gas made from carrot tops, potato eyes and radish roots.

—Or fake eyelashes made from all that spinach you have to scrape off the kids' plates.

—Maybe cement made from coffee grounds, stale bread crumbs and fruit pits. America could have an interstate highway system that smells like a prune danish.

—Or how about wearing the latest in double-knit suits weaved from last night's spaghetti dinner.

Cars, clothes, highways and eyelashes made from garbage would be cheap, but they also would have some obvious drawbacks — a certain air about them, you might say.

And making garbage a money-making commodity wouldn't do much for those who make a living selling garbage disposals. In fact, the disposal business probably would wind up down in the dumps.

Many hardships trouble 'second coming' disciples

GRANNIS, Ark. (AP) — Across from the chicken processing plant, in a cafe with a cement floor and pinball machines, 15-year-old Elizabeth Bard fried hamburgers and talked of moving to where no one's ever heard of the vigil for the Second Coming of Christ.

Unable to bear the jeers of classmates, she quit school. "Even my friends — the three or four I thought I had — avoided me. It's better working here," she said of the cafe that serves workers at the town's big industry. "I'm leaving town, too — pretty soon now."

Her mother, Elizabeth Nance Bard, led the vigil that began a year ago Wednesday and ended in July with eviction of about 30 persons from a home here.

Mrs. Bard says her daughter and all who believed in the vigil have been "subject to repression similiar to the Jews in Nazi Germany.

"The same spirit that existed in Germany exists here — not as bad, of course — but it's really here. The people can't tolerate anybody who's different. We'd do it over again, but sometimes I wonder — maybe we've done something our children can never live down."

The vigil began at a family gathering at Gene Nance's three-bedroom brick home Sept. 29, 1975, when Viola Walker, Mrs. Bard's aunt, said she got a message from God that the Second Coming was near. She said the family should stay together until the world ended.

They quit their jobs, took their children from school and stopped paying bills. Within a month, county officials took six school-age children away for truancy. Another child was lost in a custody feud. Six cars and four houses were repossessed.

Finally, in July, U.S. marshals evicted about 30 persons from the vigil house because mortgage payments had not been made, and the Farmers Home Administration began its still unsuccessful effort to sell the structure. The vigil seemed to be over.

"We're still holding on," Mrs. Walker said. "We don't feel defeated. It is our challenge to go on. Even though it didn't work out as our little minds thought it would, we know we were doing God's bidding."

Most of the vigil's participants have now rented houses here and returned to work. Mrs. Bard said two moved to New Mexico. "Maybe we'll all move away. We used to think there was something holding us here. Maybe there's not."

CAROLINE ARRIVES

A whisp of hair blows over her face as Caroline Kennedy arrives at New York's Yankee Stadium Tuesday night to watch the heavyweight title bout between Muhammad Ali and Ken Norton. The daughter of late President John F. Kennedy arrived at the fight with an unidentified escort.

Cuban economic future dim

MIAMI (AP) — Fidel Castro says Cuba faces serious economic problems because of low sugar prices on the world market and high costs of petroleum and imported goods from foreign countries.

"I must tell you and I must advise you that we will have difficulties," Castro told a celebration Tuesday night of 500,000 in Havana. "We will have, I repeat, difficulties and those difficulties will be fundamentally of an economic nature."

The prime minister painted the gloomy picture in a speech broadcast by Radio Havana and monitored in Miami.

Castro warned that Cubans will have to make sacrifices. "We will see the bitter necessity of reducing coffee consumption," he said. Cubans already are reported to be rationed to 1½ ounces per person a week.

He said a major concern is the low market price of sugar, pointing out that the problem has been aggravated by a serious drought in Cuba over the past three years.

"On Nov. 20, 1974, sugar reached 65.5 cents a pound. And on Sept. 23 of this year, it brought only 7.5 cents a pound," Castro said in his 1½-hour speech. "The price now is around 13 per cent of what it was at the end of 1974."

He said that the price of petroleum was controlled by only a few nations who make up the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

"Petroleum is sold on world markets 20 times the cost of production," Castro said. But "the world price for sugar is below cost."

He said that sugar producing countries do not have control of that commodity's world market as OPEC countries have over petroleum.

He said the United States aggravated the world price of sugar by tripling its import taxes to protect the U.S. sugar industry. The action, he said, put more sugar on the world market, driving down the price.

Castro said that the 1974-76 drought was Cuba's worse in the past two decades and affected all of the country's agriculture. Sugar production has dropped 25 per cent during that time, he added.

Castro estimated Cuban coffee production this year at 16,000 tons and indicated coffee imports to Cuba would diminish. He said that at the present rate, Cuba would have to spend $60 million in coffee imports to meet consumption.

Castro talked about the U.S. embargo on Cuban nickel and products.

"They threatened that if certain things are produced without nickel they won't buy them," Castro said.

When other countries have such economic difficulties they can go to international credit organizations.

Women's peace movement draws Norwegian allies

KRISTIANSAND, Norway (AP) — The women's peace movement in Northern Ireland, denounced by local Irish Republican Army guerrillas, is drawing support from Norwegians.

The Irish women's grass roots campaign to end eight years of sectarian bloodshed inspired a Norwegian regional newspaper to launch a campaign over the weekend to award them a "People's Peace Prize."

Faedrelandsvennen, the largest daily on the Norwegian south coast, is asking readers and other newspapers to raise at least $145,000 for peace movement organizers Betty Williams and Mairead Corrigan. That's the amount of the Nobel Peace Prize voted annually by the Norwegian parliament.

"Now is the time to give the two women support. ... Such a prize can give them renewed courage and strength while the struggle still persists," Faedrelandsvennen said in an editorial.

Last February was the deadline for nominations for the 1976 Nobel Peace Prize, to be awarded in December. The movement to bring peace between warring Protestants and Roman Catholics had not begun then, so the Irish women could not qualify for the next Nobel award.

Faedrelandsvennen said the Irish women are "leading a struggle for peace and reunion which is unique in our time. Without an organization behind them, without money, they have initiated a people's movement which has given the battered province its first hope in eight bloody years.

"If the women's movement gets big enough it could sweep aside those compromised, selfish politicians, replacing them with persons from their own ranks willing to put the peace program into definite political action."

Tax-related votes

Liberal group gives senate better marks

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The supposedly conservative state Senate gets a much higher grade than the Assembly from the liberal California Tax Reform Association.

Two-thirds of the 40 senators got ratings of 90 per cent or better in the group's survey of tax-related votes in the 1975-76 session, released Tuesday.

Only one-fourth of the 80-member Assembly was rated that high, and 23 assemblymen — compared to two senators — got ratings of below 50 per cent.

A full third of the legislature got less than what the CTRA called a "passing grade" of 70 per cent.

The results were "a sad comment on current legislators' awareness of the plight of the low and middle-income Californian" and showed "the grip that business interests and wealthy taxpayers have," the group said.

The lawmakers were rated on votes on 15 bills, including measures to repeal the oil depletion allowance, make it easier to raise business taxes, and shift welfare costs from property to income taxes.

Other positions the group said were reflected in the survey included abolition of preferential tax treatment for capital gains, added state income tax brackets for the wealthy, sales tax reductional and renters' tax relief.

Among the reasons for the Assembly's lower scores were the defeat of several tax-shift measures in the lower house's Revenue and Taxation Committee and the overwhelming Assembly floor defeat of a bill by Assemblyman Vic Fazio, D-Sacramento, to repeal a sales tax break for the airline and shipping industries.

One hundred per cent ratings, with no absences, went to Sens. Alfred Alquist, D-San Jose; Arlen Gregorio, D-San Mateo; Milton Marks, R-San Francisco; Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland; Robert Presley, D-Riverside, and Jerry Smith, D-Saratoga.

Also, Assemblyman Howard Berman, D-Beverly Hills; Terry Goggin, D-San Bernardino; Leroy Greene, D-Sacramento; Gary Hart, D-Santa Barbara; Jim Keysor, D-Sepulveda; Alan Sieroty, D-Los Angeles; John Vasconcellos, D-San Jose and Michael Wornum, D-Mill Valley. Another 22 senators and 12 assemblymen got ratings between 90 and 100 per cent.

At the other end, six senators and 10 Assembly members were given "D" grades of 50 to 69 per cent, and two senators and 21 assemblymen got F's.

The latter included one Democrat, Assemblyman Richard Robinson of Santa Ana, and 22 republicans: Sens. H. L. Richardson of Arcadia and Howard Way of Exeter, and Assemblymen Mike Antonovich of Glendale, Dixon Arnett of Redwood City, Bob Badham of Newport Beach, Bob Beverly of Manhattan Beach, John Briggs of Fullerton, Bob Burke of Huntington Beach, Bill Campbell of Hacienda Heights, Robert Cline of Northridge, John "Bud" Collier of Monrovia, William Craven of Oceanside, Bill Lancaster of Covina, Frank Lanterman of La Canada, Jerry Lewis of Highland, Robert McLennan of Downey, Ernest Mobley of Sanger, Frank Murphy of Santa Cruz, Bruce Mestande of Anaheim, Robert Nimmo of Atascadero, Paul Priolo of Pacific Palisades, and William Thomas of Bakersfield.

Mikesell bids farewell in emotional meeting

Cites reason for resigning: poor health

By JOE FIRMAN
PB Staff Writer

In an emotional special meeting of the San Bernardino County Board of Supervisors Wednesday afternoon, Supervisor Daniel D. Mikesell of Ontario said farewell to his fellow board members, department heads and administrative staff members.

Mikesell had tendered his resignation the previous day, citing poor health as the reason. He was first elected to the board in 1954. He did not run in 1958 but was elected again in 1962 and 1966. He was elected board chairman that year and served a two-year term.

Board clerk Leona Rapoport read the letter of resignation. It said, in part:

"It is with extreme regret that I am submitting this resignation in the middle of my elected term, but for well over a year it has been evident that my health would not permit me to complete my term of office. Even after a successful operation in February, my general health did not improve in the manner that I had expected, and upon the advice of several physicians in the spring and summer, it was suggested that I remove myself from the stress and strain that is generated by holding this office.

"It would be an injustice to my family and myself to continue to serve under these circumstances. Likewise, I would not be doing justice to my constituency if my health would not permit me to serve them full time."

In a long farewell speech, Mikesell referred to the recall movement which started against him when he voted for a 37 per cent pay raise for the supervisors last month, but he denied that it had anything to do with his resignation.

"In my 20 years of service to the county, this is the most difficult time I've had," Mikesell said. "You don't know how much courage it took to submit my resignation. I love this work and I love the people. It has helped us become one of the top-rated counties in the United States."

Mikesell's voice was frequently strained with emotion as he thanked his fellow supervisors, department and agency heads, administrative staff and the news media for their help and fine work while he was in office.

"If I have helped in the job of making this county outstanding, I'm proud of that, too," he said. "I'm truly sorry I'm leaving."

Supervisor Nancy E. Smith wept openly when she was called upon to speak.

"I weep not only for a colleague who is forced to retire from a job well done," she said through her tears, "I weep for good government. It has been a great pleasure working with you, Dan. It hurts to see you have to retire because of your health. Thank you for your part in building good government in San Bernardino County."

The other supervisors echoed her sentiments. "You're a part of this county's history," said James Mayfield. "I hope your legacy will live on." Robert O. Townsend said, "It took courage to step down. The name Mikesell is synonymous with courage." Chairman Dennis Hansberger summed it all up succinctly. "Thanks, Dan. God bless you."

Mikesell's successor must be appointed by the supervisors within 30 days or the task goes to Gov. Brown. Hansberger said the board would report Monday on the procedure for applying for the post.

FOND FAREWELL

San Bernardino Supervisor Robert O. Townsend, left, bids goodbye to Daniel D. Mikesell who submitted his resignation from the Board of Supervisors Tuesday. At a special meeting of the board Wednesday, Mikesell bid farewell to the other board members and administrative staff. He cited poor health as the reason for his retirement. In emotional speeches, the other supervisors paid tribute to Mikesell's contributions to the growth of the county.

Chino's Lapp receives pay hike from board

Chino schools Supt. Royce Lapp has received a pay hike from the school board which boosts his salary to $38,000 a year.

Board members approved the increase, effective last July 1, from Lapp's present wage of $36,800.

The raise, which amounts to about $100 a month, received favorable votes from board President Al McCombs, Pete Vander Poel and Paul Peterson. Trustee Lyle Briggs, a critic of Lapp, abstained from voting and Augustine Tapia was absent from Tuesday's meeting.

Lapp received a one-year contract last November and board members will be considering another contract for him soon. Efforts by several trustees to oust the superintendent last year failed.

In other action Tuesday, the board authorized an application for a $5.5 million federal grant to finance construction of two elementary schools. The money would come from a $2 billion public works bill that has passed Congress and is on President Ford's desk.

The $5,584,000 grant, if received by Chino schools, would be used to construct a school on the Magnolia Elementary site and a prototype elementary school at Pamela Drive and Roswell Avenue.

Chino youth dies in crash

A 16-year-old Chino youth died Wednesday at Riverside Community Hospital shortly after the newly-converted van he was driving crashed on the Pomona Freeway, just west of Pedley Road in Riverside.

Walter Broom, 12986 Seventh St., Chino, was following his father, Walter Broom Sr., eastbound on the Pomona Freeway, when the van swerved off the road, hit an embankment, rolled over, ejected young Broom, and rolled on top of the teenager.

Broom died at Riverside Community Hospital, about half an hour after the 3:05 p.m. accident.

Valley briefs

Clark trial is underway

Testimony has begun in the Pomona murder trial of Cleveland Lyle Clerk, 23-year-old man charged with shooting a Pomona bartender to death at the Belinda Terrace, 480 Pomona Mall West, March 8.

Clark, of Pomona, has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity. He is being held in lieu of $100,000 bail.

The trial, in the courtroom of Pomona Superior Court Judge Howard D. McClain, opened with the testimony of Robert Eugene Hart, part owner of the tavern. He testified that when he saw trouble developing between Clark and bartender William Hyland, 30, that night, he slipped out, and flagged down a policeman and sent him to the place.

It required four weeks to select the jury under a system in which each potential panel member is questioned individually by the opposing lawyers.

IT'S PIGS, PIGS, PIGS

Former Ontario City Councilman Howard Snider Wednesday won the annual hog-calling contest at the Los Angeles County Fair at Pomona. It was the third win in four years for the Ontario man who arrived dressed in a smart business suit, and then proceeded to strip down to his hog-calling outfit. Pictured are, from left, Fair Queen Mary Frances Douglas, Snider, and Princess Pati Lynn Osborne.

Flight school open house

Runway 3-7, a recently opened flight school and pilot center at Brackett Field in La Verne will host an open house Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The event will feature the antique Stearman PT 17 bi-wing trainer and a jet. There will also be films, refreshments and scenic flights.

Runway 3-7 is located on the north side of Brackett Field on Puddingstone Drive.

Pomona nurse at conference

A Pomona educator will participate in the California School Nurses annual fall conference Friday, Saturday and Sunday in Long Beach.

Dorothy Jenkins, school nurse at Pomona High School, will conduct a session on teen-age pregnancy and parenting skills.

Theme of the three-day meet is "Individualization of the School Health Program."

$5,000 fire at vacant house

Fire caused $5,000 damage to a vacant Pomona home Wednesday night and arson is suspected.

The fire occurred, said Pomona firemen, at 750 S. Reservoir St. at about 8 p.m.

Four rooms of the structure were damaged and it is believed the fire began in a bedroom mattress.

Officials said the owner lives in Chicago and that the property is managed by Bill Becker of Walnut.

16 face arraignment today following D.E.S. Hall riot

Seven of the 15 adults and nine juveniles arrested Sunday after three Chino police officers were injured during a riot at the D.E.S. Hall will be arraigned today in Chino Municipal Court on charges of assaulting police officers.

Only seven adults and nine juveniles were formally charged in complaints filed with the Chino branch of the West Valley District Attorneys office.

Scheduled to be arraigned before Chino Municipal Court Judge Philip Schaefer are: Diane P. Suarez, 18, of 2457 Riverside Drive, Chino; Yolanda Caro, 21, of 5155 Canoga St., Montclair; Ernesto Miguel Garcia, 23, of 12673 Ross St., Chino; Bobby Eugene Thompson, 45, of 13123 14th St., Chino; Angel Gonzalez, 19, of 4947 G. St., Chino; Johnny G. Esparaza, 19, of 13257 Fourth St., Chino; and Danny Valerde, 24, of 12574 Magnolia St., Chino.

Miss Suarez was released from custody on her own recognizance Wednesday during a hearing in the Chino court.

Police said they have released Debra Ramirez, 18; Joseph Z. Rodriquez, 19; and Robert M. Ceja, 19, all of Chino without charge pending further investigation.

In the rioting during a wedding reception, three police officers were injured after entering the hall in response to someone yelling for help. As the officers walked into the building they were hit by numerous metal chairs.

Two new administrators named to Chino District

Two new administrators have been appointed as part of a reorganization in the Chino Unified School District.

Kay Moore has been named director of secondary curriculum and pupil services, a new position; and Clyde F. Bnham was chosen as finance director.

School trustees, in making the appointments, followed recommendations by Supt. Royce Lapp.

Mrs. Moore, formerly assistant principal at Chino High School, will be assuming part of the duties of Sam Burton, who remains as director of elementary curriculum and child welfare and attendance.

Benham will serve directly under Al Searfoss, assistant superintendent of business. He comes to Chino from Pomona Tile Manufacturing Co. where he served as controller.

His position also is a new one, created because of tremendous growth in the district and the need for Searfoss to spend more time on building projects.

Mrs. Moore was Chino High's dean of girls for three years before being named assistant principal last August.

S.B. supervisors express concern over park bond

San Bernardino County supervisors have adopted a resolution expressing "great concern" over the financing of a $280 million park bond issue included on the November ballot.

The resolution neither supports or opposes Prop. 2.

Scattered storms may strike area

Scattered showers or thunder storms tonight and Friday may follow a Wednesday night rain which varied from .01 of an inch in Chino and Montclair to .10 in Upland.

Some parts of the valley, including Walnut and San Dimas, remained dry.

Moist, unstable air offshore caused rain during the night, the weatherman said. He discounted earlier conjectures that local weather might be affected by tropical storm Liza off the coast of Baja California.

Valley temperatures today and Friday are expected to rise to 78 with an overnight low of 63.

Mountain and desert valley areas — hit by two major rain storms in the past three weeks — can expect more of the same, though on a smaller scale, the weatherman said. Gusty winds are expected to accompany the rains, he said.

Women's league to sponsor voter registration drive

The League of Women Voters of Pomona and Diamond Bar will sponsor a voter registration drive Friday through Monday.

In cooperation with United California Bank, the league will place county deputy registrars at two bank branches on Friday.

One will work at Pomona Main Office, 301 Pomona Mall West, from 3 to 6 p.m. Another will be stationed at the Holt Avenue Branch, 321 E. Holt Ave., from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Voter registration postcards have been placed at Pomona Mall East branch, 401 Pomona Mall East, at the Pomona library and at the Beta Center, 1095 W. Grand Ave.

As part of its voter service program, the league will distribute Election Extras with the pros and cons of the ballot measures and with analysis of candidates and incumbents running for office in Nov. 2 elections.

Members of the league's speakers bureau prepared to present pros and cons on ballot propositions, will address various community groups and organizations.

FCC throws CB a curve

Beginning January 1, the nation's millions of Citizens Band addicts will gain a little breathing space in their crowded radio space. The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) had decided to allocate a total of 40 channels to CB, an increase of 17 over the present 23.

In doing so, however, the FCC has thrown industry a curve, and unnecessarily so, in the opinion of one concerned observer. It is another example of government regulators regulating without fully considering the effect on the people they regulate, says V.J. Rice, president of The Antenna Specialists Co. in Cleveland.

The effective date of the new channels should have been delayed until at least the middle of next year, he argues, to enable manufacturers to clear their inventories of 23-channel models and gear up for production of the new 40-channel models. Already, he says, one consequence of the decision has been widespread discounting of 23-channel sets, with attendant economic dislocation in the industry.

There will be another scramble, he predicts, as manufacturers submit new 40-channel radios to the FCC for type certification. This is a process that takes a minimum of a month and could mean that only a few lucky makers will have approved radios for sale on 40-channel day in January.

As a company that makes nothing but communications antennas and related accessories, and which sells more of them than any other manufacturer in the country, Antenna Specialists is not directly affected by FCC decision-making. But as a CBer himself, and as a person active in the electronic industry's affairs, Rice is strongly critical of the commission's entire performance as regards Citizens Band Radio.

At the very least he points out, the decision has caused quite a bit of confusion in the minds of consumers, and the currently available 23-channel radios are now being viewed as very questionable investments by the buying public.

This is unfortunate, says Rice, since the 23-channel sets will provide more than adequate communication ability to any purchaser. Although 40-channel sets will, of course, have 17 additional channels for conversation, most people aren't aware that the range of the 40-channel sets will not be nearly so great as that of the present 23-channel radios

Anyway, he adds, the idea that an individual needs 40 channels for conversation borders on the ludicrous, since most active CBers normally use only about half a dozen channels.

The president of another company which does happen to be directly affected by FCC decision-making agrees with Rice about the future of 23-channel CB.

Not only will the current 23-channel sets continue to be quite usable but their value, in terms of less crowding, will increase with the addition of the 17 new channels, says W.I. Thomas, president of Pace, the largest supplier of CB radios. They will become considerably less congested and easier to "get out" on.

Consumers who are thinking about the purchase of a CB radio — but don't know whether to wait for the 40-channel models can have the best of both worlds. A number of manufacturers, including Pace, are offering customers who buy 23-channel sets the opportunity to have their units factory-modified to 40 channels after January 1, for about 20 per cent of the unit's suggested list price.

Amid all the confusion and controversy, two things are certain, The Citizens Band phenomenon is here to stay, and the FCC has not issued its last ruling concerning it. And that's a big ten four.

Consolation debate

At least two of the numerous minority presidential candidates who have complained about being frozen out of the Ford-Carter television debates have one dubious consolation.

Eugene F. McCarthy, former U.S. senator from Minnesota, and Lester G. Maddox, ex-governor of Florida, have been invited to debate on the "Blueboy Forum," which is billed as "the nation's first weekly, live, sponsored forum from a gay perspective" and which will debut Oct. 25 on WKID-TV in Hallandale, Fla.

"Ford and Carter have enough TV time set with their debates," points out the program's host, Donald N. Embinder, publisher of "Blueboy," a magazine slanted for homosexuals.

In issuing the invitations to McCarthy and Maddox, M. Brian Wedekind, producer of the forum, stated: "With an estimated 200,000 homosexuals in Dade County alone, your contact with and support from this sizable bloc of voters could be most helpful in your campaign."

Maybe so. But somehow we have a hunch that neither candidate is exactly going to jump at the opportunity.

Echo of Nazi Germany

Dear Editor:

Your Sunday editorial raised the question as to the reason the pro-life forces have singled out Mr. Carter for his stand on the abortion issue. Mr. Carter says he is personally opposed to abortion. In 1972, Mr. Carter wrote the preface to a book titled "Women in Need" which indicated that, at that point in time, he was not at all personally opposed to abortion. Mr. Carter supports the Democratic platform. In the Congressional Record of Aug. 2, Rep. Bella Abzug entered an article which speaks of the "cooperation from the Carter organization" in the inclusion of the pro-abortion plank. The article points out that Stuart Eizenstat and Joe Duffy of the Carter campaign drafted the final language into the platform. Finally, Carter's choice of Mondale, a man whose voting record includes a series of pro-abortion votes, is indicative of his feelings.

President Ford favors a State's Rights amendment, chose a Pro-Life running mate and he stands behind the strong pro-life Republican platform.

Your editorial directs the pro-life people's attention to the Congressional level. We have been watching and when we vote in November we will remember that our Congressman Jim Lloyd voted yes on the Hyde amendment. He wants to use federal funds (our tax money) to finance abortions.

Our society has accepted abortion — a violent, fast and convenient solution to remedy social ills. Nazi Germany accepted a violent, fast and convenient solution to what they considered a social problem. An echo of Nazi Germany is now on Gov. Brown's desk in the form of the Right to Death bill, A.B. 3060. This bill, if signed, will provide the foundation for future legislation of this type.

Far fetched! It can't happen here. It is happening here.

Mobsters defect to Justice

WASHINGTON — Cosa Nostra hoodlums, many of them sworn to silence by blood oaths, are defecting to the Justice Department by the dozens. One reason for this astonishing development in the war against organized crime is a quiet, new method of handling defectors.

Two years ago, we reported in a series of columns that defectors from the mob were put on the witness stand, granted new identities and then left largely to fend for themselves. Many of them, with only criminal skills, were unable to make an honest living. We wrote that one prime ex-Mafia witness was told coldly to "go on welfare."

Last May, the Justice Department quietly changed its whole approach. Insiders say our columns helped to persuade government officials that they needed to offer more inducement to get mobsters to testify against their cohorts.

Now the department helps to rehabilitate underworld defectors. They are even offered psychiatric counseling to help them adjust to Chevrolets after a life of Cadillacs.

Gerald Shur, a government attorney, has also been calling on the top executive of 150 major firms, with a startling request. He has urged them to take a chance on hiring ex-Mafia men.

One Southern bank gamely employed a former armed robber. He is doing so well that his community wants him to run for the city council. But the ex-hoodlum has gratefully refused. He fears this would lead to newspaper photographs, which might betray his new identity.

All told, an amazing 1,650 underworld witnesses have testified against their former associates. Many defected during the past year. They were given new identities and were placed in jobs, usually without any need for government subsistence.

But 260 former mobsters, now living under different names after testifying for the state, are drawing government support. This is an increase of 30 during the past year.

As part of the unpublicized new drive against organized crime, the Justice Department is also using volunteer Mafia defectors to persuade pals still in the mob to turn state's witnesses.

Three months ago, for example, a Mafia mobster active in the narcotics and usury rackets was summoned into a federal investigator's office for a "routine" talk. He had been fingered by a former underworld friend, who said the racketeer was tired of the hassle from gangland enemies and, therefore, should be ripe for defection.

After the racketeer arrived in the investigator's office, his former crony entered from a side door. The two men talked alone. In the end, the visitor agreed that he, too, would take his chances with the Justice Department.

In exchange for their testimony, the defectors are given new identities and relocated far from their old underworld habitats. Each witness gets a false birth certificate, driver's permit, Social Security card, baptismal document, and sometimes, a passport. If he is married, his wife is also given a complete new identity. Then a "stop" is put on their fingerprints in the FBI files.

If the defector should be picked up and fingerprinted, the local police would send the prints to the FBI for a check. An FBI agent or U.S. marshal would then drop by to explain the situation to the local police chief.

The charges aren't fixed, but the defector is tried under his new identity. Less than 100 defectors are still in prison, some serving out old sentences, others for new offenses. But these prisoners are carefully located in "safe" prisons, with no records of their former identities.

The new deal for Cosa Nostra defectors grew out of secret meetings among U.S. attorneys and strike force heads. They agreed that more defectors were needed to curb organized crime.

Among those who pushed hardest to make defection more attractive were Justice Department attorney Gerald Shur, chief U.S. Marshal William Hall and John Rogers of the U.S. Marshal's office.

Our own underworld contacts confirm that the new program has made godfathers from Boston to Los Angeles more uneasy than they have been in decades.

FATAL ERROR: Bureaucratic bungling by the Army sent Sgt. Brian P. Russell to his death in Vietnam in 1971. More bungling today threatens to deny the sergeant's mother the relief she deserves for the loss of her son.

Over Russell's protests and in violation of its own regulations, The Army reassigned him to combat only nine months after his recovery from battle wounds. The reason was that the Army had neglected to insert in his personnel file any record of his hospitalization.

Russell was killed by a booby trap in Vietnam, even though he was ineligible for Vietnam duty. His grieving mother, Mrs. Loretta Sloan, called the travesty to the attention of Sen. Strom Thurmond, R.-S.C., and Rep. John Jenrette, D.-S.C. They introduced bills to award Mrs. Sloan $500,000 for the loss of her son.

Thurmond has done little to push the bill, except to issue a press release. It has become lost, meanwhile, in the bureaucratic maze.

We tried to track it down. We learned that the Army is opposed to paying Mrs. Sloan. Its report was submitted to the White House budget office, which relayed it to the Justice Department for its recommendation. The Justice Department, according to our sources, will send it back to the Army for revisions.

Debate issues don't count

By Terry Wade

WASHINGTON — Well they did it. Jimmy Carter and Gerald Ford locked horns in Philadelphia before the nation in "historic" debate.

Smiling Jimmy and somber Gerald, what a confrontation, but do debates really prove anything?

Surely somewhere among all the posturing that debates encourage a modicum of information must have emerged. It is difficult to believe we could have learned anything about the issues we haven't already heard or read about.

The issues didn't matter anyway. Who really cares what the candidates' positions are, we're more interested in seeing how they handle themselves than what they say.

Americans take the same position as a ranch foreman considering a new hand that he'll use for working cattle and riding the range.

The foreman doesn't spend much time discussing the cowboy's philosophy of ranching. He takes a look at both the man and his work and hires on that basis.

The foreman doesn't care about the guy's position on the issues all he thinks about is how well he rides. The horse the man rides isn't going to work harder or be faster regardless of the cowboy's philosophy of riding.

Neither is a cumbersome government going to become responsive, or so a lot of Americans theorize.

While that analogy may suffer in the translation the sad truth is a lot of voters think there really isn't anything the president can do about the major problem of too much government doing too little.

Those voters and thousands, maybe millions, of others that are just too lazy to care about the issues, watched the debates Sept. 23 to see what kind of rider the candidate would be.

The only thing that mattered to those people was how Carter and Ford handled themselves. Maybe they gave some thought to how each man would run the government, but probably not.

If there is one thing you learn out there in the world it's that you can't judge a book by its cover nor a man by how well he handles himself before a fight.

While some of us may think that a debate is the main attraction the real "fight" is handling the job after election day.

How cool Jimmy Carter or Gerald Ford came across during the debate isn't really the point. The "Fonz" of television fame is cool, but he is never confronted with real, serious problems and his solutions are ordinarily based on a bluff.

Our next president will have to do better than bluff and we should make certain we know what that man will do when the chips are down.

Doc Peirsol

Just in jest

A Maryland court has recently ruled that in addition to her food, clothing and lodging, a housewife would be worth $634.90 a month if her husband had to hire her for the job.

So there you have it! Interesting proof that, according to the legal experts, all housewives are created equal — six hundred and thirty four dollars and ninety cents worth of equality regardless of their housewifely ability. A giant step forward for some homemakers I'd say.

But the amazing thing is that while our courts are able to determine, right down to that extra ninety cents, just what the true value of a housewife amounts to, no court in the land has as yet set a price tag on husbands. However, if we are to judge by the alimony requests of wives who are suing their husbands for divorce, there is certainly no such thing as equality of the sexes. Six hundred thirty four dollars and ninety cents a month, they claim, would be a gross underestimate of a husband's ability to pay.

Payoff at the polls?

With the Carter Campaign (NEA) — Indications that 70 million eligible Americans will not vote this November are particularly troubling to Democratic politicians.

The party's people depend on mob action. Republicans benefit from rain, apathy and other natural disasters on ballot day, hence the Democratic philosophy and so its survival are linked to the quantity rather than quality of the vote.

Not surprising then that the party of the peanut is in a sweat attempting to hussle registration. One high committee man speaks quietly of "re-assessing our position against the mandatory vote." A James Earl Carter officer wonders aloud why "more people can't vote at home" even as the shut-ins and elderly immobile.

And too, the candidate himself has gotten in on the act, wrongly. At a New Jersey stop recently he was arm in arm with a party congressman who is using taxpayers' funds to encourage the vote. Rep. Frank Thompson is the one. He has used the congressional franking privilege to send voter registration pleas to his constituents. This may violate franking laws, and in any event Thompson admits that 75 per cent of those he registers would likely be Democrats. Carter thus calls Frank T. "one of the finest congressmen in the whole nation."

So frantic are the Democrats actually, that a few of them have even been talking of paying people to vote in future elections. Not so silly. In fact, the idea has been circulating for years, ironically by a Republican — businessman Frank Perry, of Palm Beach, Fla. Perry is the creator of the National Dividend Foundation in Washington, which has as its goal cash rewards (about $750) to Americans who exercise their franchise. It's a delicious idea. Perry for president?

Actually, NDF's proposal is not merely a tool to increase voter turnout. That happy occasion would be a tangential benefit. Primarily, Perry and his foundation are interested in reducing government influence over tax funds, thus over people's lives. Here's how it works:

Approximately $40 billion in corporate taxes are presently collected on an annual basis. This goes into a general funds which is more or less returned to the people, with the government bureaucracy as the middle man. Perry would divide these funds by the number of voters, and give the result to them directly without further government interference.

Perry would have a transition period of five years. The first year voters would get 20 per cent of the corporate taxes, or about $200 a piece. By 1981 the voters would get the whole pie, or $750 each. A family of two voters would get $1,500. The money would be provided on a quarterly basis so that the kickbacks would not over heat the economy.

And what of the depleted general tax funds? Would the government, bless it, go broke? Perry's economists insist not. They say that the growth of the economy adjusted to inflation would provide tax revenues equal to or surpassing the diverted corporate taxes. It would mean the government could not count on both the corporate tax and the growth revenue, but this is part of Perry's scheme. He feels government spending must stabilize. His plan would see to it.

He says his plan would also help government in other ways. Take the welfare mess as an example. The NDF believes that paying voters $750 a piece would provide income enough to lift 56 per cent of welfare recipients from the dole. That's seven to eight million fewer people to worry about, and $5-6 billion in assistance money saved. I.e., welfare would be reduced to a manageable size and, if the gods were gracious, some of the two million administrators would no longer be needed.

Frank Perry has even devised a way to assure that no bureaucracy would be needed to oversee voter dividends. The IRS would collect the corporate taxes as usual. Then send out checks to each of the 50 states. The states in turn would set up private banking systems to distribute the goodies. Neat. Complete. Admirable. On paper anyway

Would it work? Many economists believe it is sound. Still Perry's prodigal proposal remains on the fringes of acceptability. Pay voters? What rot. Then again, suppose we gave an election sometime and NOBODY came?

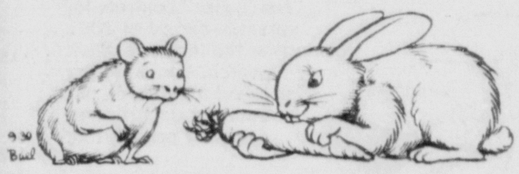
Hamster would like a carrot



DEAR DR. MILLER: My rabbit loves carrots, but I don't know about the hamster I just got. Does he need carrots, too? — E.F.

DEAR E.F.: If your hamster has a high-quality pellet food, he wouldn't really need anything else. But he'd probably appreciate carrots and, occasionally, an apple to chomp on. Such supplements may even be essential if his boxed lunches are a bit on the stale side.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I've got no problem, just a puzzle. We spent our vacation where signs were posted along the beach warning not to eat shellfish because of poisoning, (the red tide). I found out the poisoning cause is a tiny organism that multiplies so much it poisons not only the shellfish but other fish, too, by the hundreds of thousands sometimes. A big bunch of fish was killed right in the area where we stayed. While we were there, my husband caught a few small fish which we fed to our dog. She did fine. Looking back on it, I'm wondering now if she was immune to the red tide, or if it just wasn't there when the fish were caught. What I really want to know, I guess, is could my husband have caught fish which could poison the dog? — B.F.

DEAR B.F.: Gymnodinium breve is the microorganism which, when it multiplies in the water to a count of a quarter of a million organisms per quart of water, begins to kill fish life with a concentration of neorotoxic poison which paralyzes the gills thus causing respiration to stop. Even if the count were many millions of organisms per quart of water, and fish were dying all over the place, any fish caught on hook and line would not be poisonous since it would not, at the time of being hooked, have been a sick fish and so couldn't be highly contaminated. Hence it couldn't hurt your dog. Fish poisoned by the red tide organism, G brevis, would have no interest in food and under no circumstances — barring being snagged — would be caught by a fisherman.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Because he's such a great jumper, I'm just wondering how high my cat can jump without hurting himself. — S.O.

DEAR S.O.: Assuming it's a safe landing site, few felines would injure themselves on the return trip to terra firma, for they won't leap high enough to get hurt coming down — if the takeoff and return are on the same level. (A cat leaping from a window wouldn't be returning to the same level, obviously.) A cat who gains altitude by a series of jumps or climbing could certainly injure itself with a one-leap return to its starting point.

Bliss destroyed by smoking

Dear Readers: Please forgive this personal reference but I must share with you, my millions of friends, what is on my mind and in my heart.

A few weeks ago, our family gathered in Omaha to bury one of the dearest, most gentle people I have ever known. He was David Brodkey, married for 43 years to our eldest sister, Helen.

Dave was a delight. We adored him. He was meticulous about detail, the perfect choice to take charge of any family project. Dependable. Industrious. Thorough. "Integrity" was his middle name.

Dave cherished Helen, and well he might. She was a devoted wife, the beauty of the family, a talented pianist, a superb cook, and a leader in community affairs.

But Dave, The Perfectionist, the man who did everything right, did ONE thing wrong. He smoked at least two packs of cigarets every day for 30 years. This senseless addiction deprived him of the joy of seeing his grandchildren marry. And it will deny those who loved him of the pleasure of his beautiful presence.

So often I have heard smokers say, "Well, you have to die from something." True. But please, friends, if you can help it, die from something else — and don't rush the event. Lung cancer is a horrible way to go. While non-smokers, too, die from lung cancer, the evidence is irrefutable — cigaret smoking does cause lung cancer. The more we study it, the more certain we become. Smokers are the leading candidates for this dreaded disease — and heart trouble and emphysema as well.

One out of every four Americans alive today will have some form of cancer during his lifetime. One out of six people who get cancer will die from it — unless, of course, we learn more about how to prevent this scourge and how to cure it.

The economic cost of cancer in our country is $20 billion a year, to say nothing of the agony and suffering. The life of every person who reads this column has been touched in some way by cancer. It is the second biggest killer in the United States.

Almost the last words Dave uttered to his wife were these: "I should have listened to you years ago when you begged me to stop smoking." But like so many others, Dave believed cancer happens to other people.

And now, all you wives who are nagging your husbands, and all you husbands who are pleading with your wives to throw away those filthy killers — and all you young people who are turning your healthy pink lungs into tar pits at 65 cents a pack, for God's sake, for the sake of those who love you, STOP SMOKING TODAY. Do it for yourself. Do it for the people who care about you. And if you want to do something for me today please send a contribution — even a single dollar will help. The address: David Brodkey Cancer Fund, Box 4141, New York, N.Y. 10017.

Your contributions will be spent on medical research and educational material to combat the glamorous image of smoking promoted by the tobacco industry.

We CAN conquer cancer in our lifetime if enough people will join hands in this effort. Thank you so much and God bless. — Ann Landers

Why not a camp for klutzes?

There are camps for overweights, mothers of twins, tennis losers and other minority groups. So how come no one has gotten together a camp for klutzes?

Those poor people stumble around through life 52 weeks out of every year rubbing stains off their sweaters and picking toilet tissue off their heels. They can't help it. They're not your usual all-together people.

They're your screw-ups who come out of a pay toilet and realize they've left their purse on the back of the commode.

They put the wrong date on the last check in their checkbook with eight people standing behind them in the checkout line.

They lock all the doors in their car and leave the top down.

They can break a tooth while eating a marshmallow.

I'd like to see a camp where for an entire week, a klutz could do no wrong. Everything would be geared to insure him a safe, fun-filled time. If someone sent him for a left-handed tire pump, there would be one there marked "left-handed tire pump." He could use a ballpoint pen without splattering ink. He could open up a can of carbonated pop without it spraying the ceiling. There would be a special nozzle in the bathtub where, no matter what position it was in, the water wouldn't come out of the shower and drench him.

In a way I identify with klutzes. It's not that I fall a lot or anything, but I'm impetuous. A few years ago, I saw Tom Jones perform and women got so crazy some of them threw their hotel keys at him onstage. I got caught up in the frenzy and threw him my key. Unfortunately, it was the only key to our freezer.

There's something desperate about a klutz. This whole idea in fact came from a reader in Trenton, N.J., who begged me to do something. She wrote, "It takes a lot of understanding and love to deal with a klutz. A person can have an IQ of 150 and still have the magnetic catch on the kitchen cabinet attract her ankle chain . . . or use her son's hair dryer and be sucked right off the floor. I'm the one with a normal size nose who, while washing her hair, got it caught in the overflow opening."

She vowed she had such respect for me, she'd do anything I suggested. She spelled my first name with an I.

Sitting causes leg problems

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am a woman 51 years of age and have a little high blood pressure, but have it under control. My big problem is my legs.

I sit all day sewing at a factory. The calves of my legs swell terribly. I have been to a number of doctors. No one knows what it is. Also the hamstrings above my knees hurt. My legs are very tight at night. I lie down 10 minutes and all the swelling leaves. What could it be? I don't drink milk. Am I low on calcium or vitamin C or iron? I am overweight.

If you could help me, it would be a new life for me.

DEAR READER — I doubt it is a deficiency in your diet. And apparently you do not have varicose vein problems. Your history suggests that it is related to your sitting. This is an important point for many people.

When you sit with pressure against the back of the thighs and sometimes with added pressure at the edge of the seat of the chair, you press hard on the benis that drain the legs. The pressure can cause faulty emptying of the veins. It has been known to result in clots forming in the veins, for example, after long airplane flights with improper seating.

Your overweight problem may contribute to the condition. I would suggest that you pay particular attention to your seat and make sure it fits you so that the pressure is directly on your pelvic bones with little or no pressure on the muscular part of your thighs. Also get up regularly and stretch your legs. Anyone who has to sit long periods of time would be wise to follow the same advice.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 5-8, Varicose Veins, as it may have some pointers in it that will help you. Others who want this information can send a long stamped, self-addressed envelope with 50 cents for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would appreciate any information you could give me on hypoglycemia. Is it possible that a person would feel worse when first going on a hypoglycemia diet?

DEAR READER — Yes, you can feel worse. Particularly if you really don't have hypoglycemia. The diagnosis is made far too often in people who really have other problems, including anxiety, instead of hypoglycemia. I am afraid the diagnosis is often used as a wastebasket to label all sorts of ill defined complaints that appear to have no ready explanation.

The diagnosis should never be made, unless it can be demonstrated that typical symptoms occur at the same time that a low blood glucose value is documented. Low blood sugar levels without symptoms during testing is not a satisfactory basis for the diagnosis. Symptoms, which could be caused by other things, without the low blood glucose reading cannot be used alone for a diagnosis.

Many hypoglycemia diets are low carbohydrate diets. The sharp reduction of carbohydrate intake to extremely low levels in normal people leads to loss of salt, water and chemical imbalance and may cause a person to feel tired, faint, or have a headache. If you don't have hypoglycemia and that is the diet you have been given — a so called high protein diet — that may be your problem.

On verbalizing the negative

It is possible to control your negative emotions by verbalizing your negative thoughts away . . . but a word of caution is in order.

First: Never verbalize a negative emotion out loud, alone. This is very important! In other words, if you feel you are no good, if you feel you are not pretty, if you feel you have blown it, if you feel you are a failure, if you feel life is a wash out, you must never, never verbalize such a negative emotion alone. If you are driving your car, or if you are lying in your bed, or if you are walking on a sidewalk — don't ever verbalize a negative emotion alone because your conscious mind will believe it and you will just be plummeted down to defeat and despair.

A second word of caution: Never verbalize a negative emotion out loud to another negative-thinking person becaue he will agree with you! He will say, "Yeah, you sure blew it, didn't you!" And that will really defeat you!

A third note of caution: Never verbalize a negative emotion in an exclamatory sentence! How then do you verbalize a negative emotion?

Here's how: By putting it in the form of a question, and then addressing it to a positive-thinking person.

For instance: If you think your marriage is washed up, you don't say out loud, as you are driving to work, "My marriage is washed up, I'm finished." As soon as you say that, you are! Nor do you stop at the bar on the way home and say to the bartender, "You know, I think my marriage is washed up." He will say, "I think you are right. Have another beer."

What do you do? You go to a pastor, or to a counsellor, or to some other positive-thinking Christian. And you ask a question, "Is there any hope for saving my marriage? Is it possible there might be some effective way we can rebuild love after what has happened?" When you verbalize a negative emotion by putting it in the form of a question and address that question to a possibility-thinking, positive, emotion-charged person, you will be surprised how many of your bad feelings can be discharged this way.

God can fill your heart so full of positive emotions that your negative emotions will be choked out by faith.

Rhinos scarce even in Rome

That animal which most appealed to the bloodthirsty audiences that watched the gladiators battle in old Rome was the rhinoceros. Much discussed today are the various species on the endangered lists. But even way back then, the Roman notables complained sadly that because of colosseum slaughter, the world was rapidly running out of rhinoceroses.

INDIAN SCALPS

The bounty on Indian scalps in Deadwood City, S.D., a little more than 100 years ago was $200 per. And a little more than 200 years ago in Massachusetts, the bounty was $400 per. The practice faded in time from east to west as the settlers grew more confident. But it was a gruesome business — and a business it was — in the early years. Mention of it was made here earlier. But no mention was made of the fact that scalp hunting in colonial New England founded more family fortunes than the fur trade.

Many Asian DPs still victims of mental depression

WASHINGTON (AP) — Most of the 138,000 Indochinese refugees who fled to the United States after Communist-led victories in Southeast Asia are adjusting to their new country but many suffer from mental depression, a new report to Congress says.

The congressional task force on refugees said that in the nearly 18 months since the fall of South Vietnam and Cambodia, most of the refugees have made "vast strides toward assimilation into American life."

The percentage of refugees drawing welfare has stabilized for the first time, the report said, and most have found jobs and left the homes of their initial American sponsors.

While many serious problems in adjustment remain, the Vietnamese, Laotians and Cambodians who fled to the United States when the Communists overran Saigon and Phnom Penh in the spring of 1975 "are progressing better than many expected in the early days of resettlement, and the overwhelming majority are moving toward economic self-sufficiency," Congress was told.

An increasing incidence of mental depression among refugees has been observed, the task force said, "a natural result of resettlement in a new country."

Treatment of the mental illness through conventional therapy, however, is extremely difficult because modern psychiatry is virtually unknown in Indochinese culture, and language and cultural barriers make it almost impossible for psychiatric workers to assist refugee patients, the report said.

The task force recommended that Congress approve a Ford administration bill to open the door for citizenship for the refugees by declaring them to be resident aliens. Similar legislation was enacted to assist refugees from the Hungarian and Cuban revolutions.

Unless the Indochinese are declared resident aliens, the report said, it would take nearly 30 years before all the refugees could gain resident alien status, the first step toward citizenship, because the law provides that no more than 5,100 persons from all countries in a given year can be admitted to the United States in that classification.

Thus an entire generation of Indochina refugees would be bound into a limbo of virtual statelessness awaiting their turns for admission.

The task force said a July-August survey found that 80 per cent of the refugee men are working or looking for work, slightly higher than the general American male rate of 75.6 per cent, and that 45 per cent of the refugee women are in the labor force, about the same as the American rate for all women.

'Why did he resign?'

Brezhnev still has admiration for Nixon

LONDON (AP) — Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev still has lingering admiration for former President Richard M. Nixon and doesn't understand why Nixon had to resign, veteran U.S. diplomat W. Averell Harriman reported today after a Moscow visit.

"They got along so well," Harriman said of Nixon and Brezhnev.

"He doesn't understand what President Nixon did in the United States, or Watergate," he continued. "He only thinks of the progress they made together."

Harriman, 84, is a former ambassador to Moscow, governor of New York and ambassador-at-large for Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson. He is now a foreign affairs adviser to Democratic presidential candidate Jimmy Carter.

Harriman said he had been told in his meeting with Brezhnev lat weekend that the Soviets are remaining neutral in the U.S. presidential contest. He added that the Soviets had been disturbed by some of the early campaign rhetoric.

"They were particularly upset by the part (former California) Gov. Ronald Reagan played — he would have had us back in a cold war," said Harriman.

Harriman said a three-hour meeting with Brezhnev and talks with other Soviet officials also covered other topics.

"I made it very plain that the American government and American people were not satisfied with the results of the Helsinki agreement. I also said that the increase in Soviet military capabilities was not conducive to good will.

"I stressed that the introduction of Cuban troops in Angola was a very serious affair," he told reporters.

The nuclear limitation talks were also brought up. "It's of overriding importance to the world that the United States and Soviet Union should come together on this. Gov. Carter has made it plain to me that he not only would control nuclear weapons but reduce them. I told Mr. Brezhnev that for the first time we had a candidate for president who was a nuclear expert who understood the problem."

After leaving Moscow, Harriman spent two days in Yugoslavia.

Unable to meet President Tito, who is ill, he talked with other top government officials.

"I was surprised to find how deeply people felt about the lack of concern in the United States over the terrorist movement," he said, recalling the recent Croatian-American plane hijacking in the United States.

Committee ponders grand jury reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Senate subcommittee is considering proposals to reduce grand jury secrecy and expand the rights of defendants who face indictment.

At a hearing eefore the Senate Judiciary subcommittee on constitutional rights, witnesses urged that grand jury testimony be recorded and defendants be granted areliminary hearing eefore indictment.

The subcommitee intends to continue its study of the grand jury system next year before recommending possible legislation.

Supporters of changes in the grand jury system say proposed legislaion in the House was stalled this year because of opposition by the Ford Administration.

Sen. John V. Tunney, D-Calif., the subcommittee chairman, was not present at the hearing, but he submitted a statement saying that the courts have failed to correct abuses and "the responsibility for reform now rests squarely on the Congress."

Tunney said that federal prosecutors "race to indict" people before a preliminary hearing can be held, "thus every day depriving the defendant of the right to confront his accusers before trial."

Dist. Atty. John K. Van de Kamp of Los Angeles recommended that grand jury proceedings be recorded, that defendants be given access to a transcript of testimony against them and that witnesses be permitted to have their lawyer present.

None of these things is currently allowed at grand juries, which act in secret. Grand juries are the first to consider most criminal cases, deciding if there is sufficient evidence to indict a person and bring him to trial.

Van de Kamp, a former U.S. attorney and federal public defender in Los Angeles, also testified that defendants should have a right to a preliminary hearing before a grand jury indictment so they would know who their accusers are and the testimony against them.

Testifying for the American Bar Association, Richard E. Gerstein, state's attorney for Dade County, Fla., said the ABA supports in principle proposals to allow witnesses before grand juries to have a lawyer present and to prohibit repeated jailing of a witness for refusing to answer a grand jury's question.

He said he fully supports the Constitution's provision for freedom of the press and that his office's policy is not to subpoena reporters to testify before a grand jury about the source of a story.

But Gerstein said the problem is different when, in an investigation of organized crime, for example, a witness refuses to testify not as a matter of conscience but in order to protect a coconspirator.

Although reporters would be covered by the same rights as other witnesses under the various proposals, there were no indications that special provisions applying to reporters were being considered.

Testifying for the National Association of Criminal Defense Lawyers, Melvin B. Lewis of Chicago said that the grand jury has become "a tool of the police agencies" and is in need of major changes.

Wife still seeks 'decent burial' for her husband

EOLIA, Ky. (AP) — Glenna Sturgill is still waiting to give her husband "a decent and good burial."

Her husband, James, 48, was one of 26 men killed in two explosions 30 hours apart in Scotia Coal Co.'s No. 1 mine at Big Black Mountain in nearby Oven Fork.

He died on March 11, five days after the couple had moved into a new mobile home in this Kentucky hamlet.

The efforts to recover Sturgill's body, and those of the 10 men who died with him, have taken longer than expected, and Mrs. Sturgill says the waiting has been painful.

"When you're expecting it, it really hurts when there's a delay," said Mrs. Sturgill, whose home is adorned with religious portraits. "It's hard to explain. We're just living it day in and day out. If we could ever get them out, and put them away decently, it might help some."

When the mine was reopened July 14, officials said it would take 60 days to reach the bodies. That deadline passed. Last week, survivors of some of the victims were told the bodies would be brought out by midOctober. Now, officials aren't sure that date will be met.

The first of the two methane gas explosions in the mine killed 15 men on March 9. Their bodies were recovered. Mrs. Sturgill's husband and 12 other men went in two days later to prepare the mine for a federal investigation into the cause of the first blast.

When the 13 men reached the section where the first fatal blast occurred, there was another explosion. Two crawled to safety, but Mrs. Sturgill's husband and 10 other men — including three U.S. Mining Enforcement and Safety Administration inspectors — were killed. The mine was ordered sealed because officials said it was too dangerous to attempt to recover the bodies.

"They've told me it would be sometime between the first and the 14th of October," Mrs. Sturgill said. "It's been a rough six, seven months, just sitting here waiting. It's almost more than anyone can take. After you've been married to someone for 25 years, it's pretty rough."

The bodies are about three miles from the opening of the bowl shaped mine and are some 1,000 feet beneath the surface of the mountain.

Recovery operations were delayed first by water that had accumulated in low areas of the mine. Now rock falls and dangerous roof conditions are slowing the recovery teams.

It has taken nearly three months for recovery teams to secure about 9,000 feet of the mine. They have a similar distance to go before reaching the bodies.

A memorial service was held for Sturgill a short time after he died, and now his widow is making funeral arrangements.

"I have already talked to a minister and a funeral home, and we will have him brought to the church near the home here," she said. "He'll be buried over at the Maggard Cemetery."

Teachers protest ruling

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—A teacher tries to play the autoharp and the class giggles or a teacher tries to sing and pupils snicker.

That's the situation that has caused some teachers to start circulating petitions against a school board rule.

"The music program in effect in many elementary schools in Clark County includes activities which are mandatory, demeaning, humilitating and destructive of the relationship between teachers and students," the petition reads.

"Teachers must lead students in singing whether or not the teacher has singing ability," it continued. "Teachers are asked to teach skills of playing a musical instrument with which the teacher has no ability."

The petition is being circulated by the Clark County Classroom Teachers Association, the union for instructors.

School officials said it appears there is a misunderstanding about the program under which they've attempted to introduce more music to the classroom.

Robert Dunsheath, director of instruction service, said there is no rule that prohibits a teacher from using tapes or records in providing music instruction.

He said the system has 19 music specialists who supervise the program, but they are spread so thin they can get to each class no more than once a week.

Socialite fined, put on probation

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Socialite Betty Newling Bloomingdale has been fined $5,000 and given a year's probation and suspended prison sentence for altering a custom's invoice.

U.S. District Court Judge Lawrence T. Lydick, in handing down the sentence Tuesday to Mrs. Bloomingdale, said the socialite "deserved the contempt of society which has served you so well."

Mrs. Bloomingdale, who pleaded guilty Aug. 23 to a charge of concealing an invoice from a custom's inspector, said she was "truly sorry" about the incident.

She presented an invoice to a customs inspectors showing a purchase price of $518.65 for two Christian Dior dresses valued at $3,880.

The defendant's husband, Alfred S. Bloomingdale, was president of Diner's Club and is a member of the Bloomingdale department store family.

Duplication in health education declared

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The federal government's top health manpower official says that there is a wasteful duplication of educational programs throughout the country to train health workers.

Dr. Kenneth M. Endicott, chief administrator of the Health Resources Administration, told persons attending an educators conference that duplication lowers quality and wastes use of scarce faculties, facilities and equipment.

"We are far from convinced," said Endicott, "that as much progress has been made in quality as in quantity."

Attending the conference sponsored by the California State University and Colleges Health Resources Administration were representatives of allied health training programs offered by the state's colleges and universities.

Endicott said Tuesday too many health education programs are long and costly and that these programs fail to blend academic and practical clinical training. This, he said, results in an inadequate educational experience and graduates who cannot find jobs.

"Overall educational resources are now adequate to produce the numbers of allied health professionals to meet quantitative demands," Endicott said. "But there is the problem of the proper distribution of mapower."

He said his agency does not know how to correct this, but said "We do know that overproducing practioners in any health occupation is not the answer.

"Other incentives must be found rather than churning out more and more graduates," Endicott said.

Bridge

Hamlet most eloquent

By Oswald & J. Jacoby

The fair Ophelia had gotten Hamlet into another cuplicate game, Actually, it was the important Elsinore Mixed pairs.

The first hand found the melancholy Dane in a normal three-notrump contract. West opened the four of diamonds. East won with the ace and led back the eight of hearts.

Hamlet soliloquized. "To finesse or not to finesse, that is the question. For whether 'tis better in the end to suffer the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune or to take the average plus score. Ah! There's the rub."

Hamlet would have had no problem in rubber bridge. He would rise with the ace, knock out West's king of diamonds and make four notrump. At match points he would make five instead of four if he played his queen of hearts and it held.

The match-point problem was not too difficult either. The three-notrump contract was very normal, but Hamlet felt that a heart would be opened at some tables. This lead would hold declarer to just three. While he would get two heart tricks, he would not have time to set up the diamonds. Hence, one overtrick would mean a decent score even if the heart finesse were on. Hamlet went up with his ace, knocked out the king of diamonds and tied for top.

No it is not. It shows anywhere from a good 17 high-card points to a poor 19. If South holds 7 or more he should find another bid.

LVC to break ground for new law center

Judge Howard Wiener of the San Bernardino County Superior Court will be speaker Friday during a ground-breaking ceremony for La Verne College's new law center to be constructed at E and Third streets across from the main campus.

Dr. Armen Sarafian, college president, said a final contribution of $75,000 boosted the building fund campaign to its $500,000 goal. The program starts at 11:30 a.m. at the site.

Completion of the law center will fulfill final requirements for American Bar Association creditation. The California Bar Association has recognized the six-year-old school which has shared classroom space on the college campus since its founding.

The new law center will encompass all law center classrooms, administrative offices and the library.

Student applications are still open for both day and night classes at the center, said Dr. Sarafian. The school is the only law center between Pasadena and Arizona, he added.

Showing the need for more lawyers, he reported there is a ratio of one attorney for every 265 residents in Los Angeles County, one attorney for every 1,288 persons in San Bernardino County and one attorney for every 1,178 persons in Riverside County.

Classes at the La Verne Law Center are limited to a small number of students to insure individual attention. The faculty has 30 instructors, including judges.

Trade with Reds urged

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Secretary of Commerce Elliot Richardson says restrictions on trade with communist nations should be eased because it will help both sides politically and economically.

"Either we trade or we suffer. It is almost as simple as that," Richardson told a convention of the Electronic Industries Association Tuesday.

The secretary said the electronics industry has been singled out for more controls than other industries, primarily because of security considerations that apply in trade with Communist countries.

Richardson said that controls sometimes have heavy impact on specific segments of the U.S. economy, such as the electronics industry.

"And when they do, frankly, they hurt," he said.

"They hurt business. They hurt profits. They hurt workers because the job opportunities that would have been generated by the increased exports simply do not materialize."

He said Communist nations have not been as much in the market for U.S. technology and consumer items as they have for agriculture, which he said constituted 60 per cent of $50 billion worth of trade in 1975 with the Soviet Union, Eastern Europe and China.

The secretary said such trade also helps Communist nations politically.

Mrs. Hearst resigns from UC board

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Catherine Hearst, once demanded by the kidnapers of her daughter Patricia to resign from the University of California board of regents, has finally done so.

Her brief letter to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. Tuesday said she was quittng "with great regret," but gave no reason.

UC President David Saxon issued a statement saying, "I am sorry that the tragic circumstances of these past years have resulted in her resignation."

Mrs. Hearst, wife of newspaper publisher Randolph Hearst, had served on the board since 1956. Her latest 16year term wasn't due to expire until 1990.

During the last meeting she attended, in September 1975, she received word of Patricia's arrest.

'Yankee Doodle'

The origin of the song "Yankee Doodle" is unknown, but it is believed to have been composed in England in the 1750s and used to deride American colonials. It became instead a patriotic American air. The first known American printing of the song was as part of Benjamin Carr's "Federal Overture" in Baltimore in 1795.

Louis Cochue

NEW YORK (AP) — Louis H. Cochue, who made a balloon ascent over New York in 1900, celebrated his 90th birthday three days early with a more modern flight — a helicopter ride around the city.

"I rode horse cars in the old days, I rode the elevated when the trains were pulled by steam engines and I've flown the jets to California. But I never took a helicopter before and I wanted to get a good look at the Statue of Liberty and other historic sights," he told passengers Sunday on the New York Airways chopper.

Stewardess Astrid Zabriskie decorated the craft especially or the event and had the 30 persons aboard sing "Happy Birthday" to the Yonkers resident, a retired stagehand.

His daughters, Loraine Spraker of Westfield, N.J., and Yvonne Andews of Allentown, Pa., arranged the flight, which featured a bird's eye view of 10th Avenue and 50th Street in Hell's Kitchen where Cochue was born Sept. 29, 1886.

Automobile club grows daily

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Its 18 million members make it perhaps the world's largest club and lend teeth to the lobbyists who battle for its interests on Capitol Hill.

Every year it does tens of millions of dollars of business. It grows bigger daily, adding members here and new business ventures there.

But most of the motorists who pay $10 to $30 a year to join the American Automobile Association are less interested in flexing muscle to slow down clean air legislation than in getting a tow if their car breaks down.

Profits from AAA's diversified travel businesses — $1.2 million last year — are plowed into services such as a campaign to teach preschool children how to avoid traffic accidents.

Some 1,000 delegates from AAA's 214 clubs in the U.S. and Canada are meeting in San Francisco this week to discuss issues affecting car ownership and travel.

The meeting began with an invocation: "Thank you, God, for the freedom to enjoy the use of force and power of the machines that make life easier for us."

They also heard a report that their many-faceted organization is in great shape financially, with sales of $74 million last year covering dues, tours, maps, auto insurance and other services.

Public information officer J. Kay Aldous explained that each AAA club is run by a board of directors, most of whom serve without pay.

AAA's president is San Francisco businessman Charles F. Bulotti, and its executive vice president is J.B. Creal, who said issues before the convention include urging courtesy by drivers and deploring "speed traps."

Others are more controversial. Though endorsing the principle of clean air, the AAA opposes the tailpipe emission standards set in the Clean Air Amendments Act of 1970.

It urges the government to move forward in developing an energy policy but is against laws imposing mandatory mile-per-gallon standards on automobile manufacturers. It favors "adequate public transportation systems" but opposes use of Highway Trust Fund monies to develop them.

Bulotti argued in his opening address that "during the '70s the automobile has become an artificial scapegoat for too many of our national social setbacks."

Later Creal said, "Of course we don't expect each of our 18 million members to agree with us on each of our policies. Any time you have such a large group of people, you are going to have diverse opinions."

This year, they will also be voting on a proposal to flex their muscle in Detroit's direction, urging automobile manufacturers to build smaller, more comfortable cars with better gas mileage.

The pilot for this project, conducted by AAA's largest affiliate, the Southern California Auto Club, rated automobiles for conformity with a list of "target car" standards.

Lasorda's dream comes true

NEW DODGER MANAGER

Tom Lasorda speaks at press conference Wednesday after being picked to succeed Walter Alston as manager of the Dodgers. Lasorda, 49, has been a Dodger coach since 1973.

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — The Dodgers held an odd press conference Wednesday.

There was Tommy Lasorda, a man seeing a dream come true. Yet the new Dodger manager, a man noted for his outgoing personality and garrulousness, stood in front of the assembled press, television and radio with his head lowered, eyes down, staring at some space on the floor to his left.

He spoke in subdued tones.

"This is the greatest day of my life in baseball," he said simply.

There was Walter Alston, who had managed the Dodgers for 23 years. He looked like a man at a funeral.

Lasorda has been with the organization in one capacity or another for 27 years. He started as a scout after his playing days were over, became a manager in the low minors and worked his way up to Triple-A baseball.

He has always wanted to someday manage the Dodgers. He is said to have once remarked that when he died he wanted the Dodger schedule on his gravestone so that when people visited the cemetery they would know if the Dodgers were playing that night.

Yet Lasorda acted more like he had lost a job rather than gotten the one that has long been his goal.

You would have thought it would be a happier occasion. The Dodger administration certainly did its best to bring it off that way.

Walter and Peter O'Malley were present. So was general manager Al Campanis. So were Alston's three coaches, Red Adams, Jim Gilliam and Monty Basgall who will coach under Lasorda now.

The booze flowed freely beforehand. It should have been a festive occasion.

But it came off strangely somber.

You had to feel sorry for Alston. It is supposed to have been his idea to step down. But Walter has acted more like a man who was told he could return if he insisted, but really it would be best if he would relinquish the reins he held so long.

Walter always said he didn't want a 9-to-5 job. But that's what he has taken. He managed to smile a few times and even got off a couple of jokes.

But the smile soon vanished to be replaced by a strained, haunted look.

You had to feel sorry for Walter. Whether or not the years eroded his managing skills or today's ballplayers marched to a different tune, he is still a strong and vigorous man.

And such a man does not enjoy giving up his job, to step aside for a younger man.

He has done that, willingly or unwillingly. But it has not been easy. And watching his replacement being introduced must have been very painful.

Once the decision was reached, he did not tarry. The new era, if it is to be that, began almost immediately. Lasorda was at the helm as the Dodgers edged the Astros, 1-0, Wednesday night.

One of his first jobs will be to find what he called, "the best third base coach available." Lasorda will manage from the dugout.

The new coach might just be Preston Gomez, former Dodger coach under Alston. Gomez has quit his job to return to the coast and wants to work near his Santa Monica home.

To make the Dodgers a winner, Lasorda wants more punch, more production. The Dodgers simply don't score enough runs. They have totaled four runs in their last three games.

Lasorda also must get the players pulling together again. They have gone in different directions the last two years. Lasorda has managed most of them in the minors. As youngsters, they worked together as a team. Now they are proven major leaguers and Lasorda is a rookie major league manager. Whether the old magic will work again remains to be seen.

But he certainly was the favorite.

The O'Malleys and Campanis met Tuesday to discuss Alston's successor. They agreed Lasorda was the man.

Lasorda received a telephone call at 9 a.m. Wednesday notifying him the job was his. The press conference was held at noon. A few hours later he was managing the team.

It may have been an exceedingly rapid transition. But it was hardly an easy one. The end of Walter Alston's career as Dodger Manager came with stunning quickness.

Lasorda was asked when he would take over.

"I can answer that best," said Alston stepping to the battery of microphones. "I think I inherited a pretty good ball club when I took over. I think Tommy is, too.

"All these years I've been wanting to go upstairs and see if managing is as easy as you guys say. I think I'll just turn it over to Tommy. I just hope he wins tonight because it will go on my record."

Fittingly, Walter Alston got his last wish as Dodgers manager.

Damien favored in SAL again

With league play beginning tonight in both the San Antonio and Hacienda leagues, football predictions can't be put off any longer.

I had hoped that waiting until those two leagues finished the non-league portion of their schedules might afford some added insight into the relative strengths of the teams, but that doesn't seem to be so.

But the predictions must go on:

SAN ANTONIO LEAGUE — The SAL looks as if its future is as hard to see as ever. The league is so evenly balanced that ties for positions pepper the standings almost every year. Chino and Damien tied for the title last year but 1974 was even wilder: Pomona won the championship but four teams tied for second!

Damien has a lot of talent again but its major task is replacing two graduated all-CIF defensive players, Greg Elias and Brian Faust. But the Spartans have seven returning starters from last year's defensive unit including standout Hugo Cargnelutti. Leo Burke is back at fullback and junior Dan Marconi has earned a starting berth at quarterback.

Pomona should be improved enough to get back into the title picture this year. The Red Devils have a fine line offensively and defensively. They also have a good fullback in Ricky Fairman and a good passer in Kevin Johnson. John Bullock, a junior tailback, should develop into a fine runner and pass receiver. Depth is Pomona's only problem.

Chino's Jim Rawls has the numbers and the talent again but has to replace graduated running back Rick Riedel and transferred quarterback Chris Pruitt. The Cowboys didn't generate much offense in their first two games.

Upland is strong up front but will have to come up with improvement in the backfield. Ganesha probably has more speed than any other SAL team, especially in the person of running back Floyd Eddings, a 9.6 sprinter. Claremont has a large squad but a young one without much experience. Garey has speed, but figures to be outmanned by some of the larger SAL squads. Montclair should be improved over last year, but will probably dwell in the cellar again.

The prediction: 1. Damien; 2. Pomona; 3. Chino; 4. Upland; 5. Ganesha; 6. Claremont; 7. Garey; 8. Montclair.

Darkhorse: Chino.

HACIENDA LEAGUE — The HL appears to have changed from the three-team race it was last year to a five-team battle this time around.

San Dimas, Bonita, Walnut, Alta Loma and Royal Oak all seem to have the potential to take the pennant race down to the wire.

The Saints rate the favorite's edge on the basis of their running backs, Fred Carter and Bob Pleasant. If San Dimas can generate any sort of passing game and keep its defense tough, the Saints may be unbeatable.

Bonita will rely on quarterback Sanford Coggins and running back Jim Franks to move the offense. The Bearcats appear to be stingy on defense as usual. Walnut boasts a top running back in Kevin Morgan, but the Mustang defense isn't as airtight as it was last year. Alta Loma is definitely the most improved team in the HL while Royal Oak lost quite a bit of talent to graduation. The remaining three teams — Ontario, Sierra Vista and Gladstone — figure to be outclassed by all but each other.

The prediction — 1. San Dimas; 2. Bonita; 3. Walnut; 4. Alta Loma; 5. Royal Oak; 6. Ontario; 7. Gladstone; 8. Sierra Vista.

Darkhorse — Alta Loma.

ARROWHEAD LEAGUE — As usual, the Big Three—Notre Dame, Aquinas and Big Bear — will dominate the league, and another tough team — San Jacinto — has been added. Webb School, under new head coach Len Hassler, opened with a 16-0 win over CSDR, but La Verne Lutheran has already lost twice.

The prediction — 1. Notre Dame; 2. Big Bear; 3. Aquinas; 4. Webb; 5. San Jacinto; 6. Orange Lutheran; 7. La Verne Lutheran; 8. CSDR; 9. Sherman Indian.

Darkhorse — Aquinas.

CITRUS BELT LEAGUE — Chaffey, tri-champ last year with Redlands and Fontana, is in for at least a share of the title again this year. The Tigers are bolstered by a backfield made up entirely of returning starters.

The prediction: 1. Chaffey; 2. Fontana; 3. Redlands; 4. Eisenhower; 5. San Gorgonio; 6. Pacific.

Darkhorse — Redlands.

NFL switch due to BB playoffs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The Oct. 10 National Football League game between St. Louis and Philadelphia will be played in St. Louis rather than Philadelphia because of the baseball playoffs, the Cardinals announced Tuesday.

Montefusco can brag now

Count hurls a no-no

ATLANTA (AP) — "You gotta be good to throw a no-hitter in the big leagues. Well, this proves it, I'm good," proclaimed John Montefusco, the brash San Francisco Giants' right-hander after throwing his gem at the Atlanta Braves Wednesday night.

"I always dreamed about throwing a no-hitter, but I never thought I could. I can't believe it, I can't believe it," Montefusco said after the 9-0 triumph in which "The Count" came within a walk of a perfect game.

The 26-year-old native of Long Branch, N.J., was in command all the way as his teammates had nothing but routine chances before a slim turnout of 1,369 in Atlanta's final home contest of the season.

The only runner to reach base was Jerry Royster, who walked on a 3-1 count leading off the fourth inning.

"He painted a pretty solid picture," said Giants Manager Bill Rigney of the 1975 National League Rookie of the Year. "That's as good a job as I've ever seen. There were nothing but routine outs, easy fly balls and grounders."

"It's the greatest day of my life," said the outspoken Montefusco. "It's the perfect way to end the season. Now I can talk about it all winter."

Montefusco nearly missed the start because of a congested chest.

"I had to pitch because if I didn't, (Willie) Montanez would have said I chickened out," he said.

Montefusco, 16-14, said he was "up" for the game because of Montanez, a former teammate who was traded to Atlanta earlier this season. He told Montanez at the time he would not get a hit off him all year.

"I was only trying to stop Willie from getting a hit. I didn't think I'd stop the whole team," said a smiling Montefusco. "Montanez is a hot dog like I am, only tonight I put a little mustard on it."

"He's a pretty good pitcher but sometimes he lets his mouth get in the way of his pitching," said Montanez.

"You stop Montanez and you stop the Braves. He's their best hitter," said Montefusco, adding that the Atlanta first baseman went "0-for-10 this season against me."

The no-hitter was only the second thrown in Atlanta Stadium since the Braves moved South in 1966. Atlanta's Phil Niekro tossed the other one, on Aug. 5, 1973 against San Diego.

Montefusco, who struck out four, threw mostly fast balls and a sinker he said he learned "only a few days ago—to get Montanez out."

He needed only 97 pitches and went to three balls on only three hitters.

Montefusco said he started thinking no-hitter in the second inning, said the fans yelled to him in the fifth about it, and said he spoke about it with his teammates early in the contest.

"I don't believe in jinxes," he said.

His only fearful moment came in the eighth when Dale Murphy lined to second baseman Marty Perez. "My heart stopped for a second. I thought it was all over until I turned around and saw it was right at Marty.

"There was no way they were going to get a hit in the ninth," he said. "I was throwing as hard as I know how."

At the start, he said he was more concerned with "getting runs." His teammate took care of that in a hurry.

Rookie shortstop Johnnie LeMaster and Gary Thomasson led the Giants' 12-hit assault against Jamie Easterly, 1-1, and three Atlanta relievers. LeMaster had a double and a triple and drove in three runs while Thomasson had two hits and knocked in a pair of runs.

Royals prepare for victory party

OAKLAND (AP) — The Kansas City Royals are home today, in the city Charles O. Finley deserted eight years ago, preparing for a pennant-clinching party.

"You could say an era is over," said Gene Tenace of the Oakland A's after Wednesday night's 4-0 Royals' victory over the Finley-owned team which has won five straight American League West titles and claimed baseball world championships in 1972-73-74.

"We're lifted up right now and I hope we stay up this weekend," said Kansas City Manager Whitey Herzog whose team had lost six of seven games before Wednesday night.

The A's had won five of six, charging within reach of the leaders.

"We haven't ended it yet, but we're comfortable now," said the Royals' John Mayberry.

Herzog went to his bullpen for a starting pitcher and got a four-hit shutout from Larry Gura, 4-0, while Amos Otis drove in two runs with a homer and double in his first game since a two-day stay on the bench.

"The homer felt good. It had been a long time since we'd gotten one," noted Otis. It was his 18th of the season, giving the Royals their final run in the fifth inning, but the team's first in 108 innings.

One victory over the Minnesota's Twins in the final three-game series of the regular season will clinch the title. The series opens Friday night in Royals Stadium.

"I'd still like to see Frank Tanana come in here and beat the A's. That would make things a little easier for us," Herzog added.

The Royals, with a 3½-game lead, also can uncork the champagne if the A's, moved to the West Coast from Kansas City by owner Finley in 1968, lose one of their four remaining games.

"I suppose we could win all our games and they could lose all theirs, but I doubt it will happen," said A's center fielder Bill North. Oakland faces Tanana, the California Angels' 18-game winner, Friday night.

Before Otis' homered off reliever Paul Lindblad, the Royals scored three runs off starter Paul Mitchell, 9-7.

"The bunts surprised me," admitted Mitchell, the rookie right-hander who added, "I tried to do my best. Maybe I tried too hard."

After a double play by first baseman Ron Fairly in the second inning, Cookie Rojas' bunt down the third base line brought home Hal McRae with the game's first run. The third opened with a double by Fred Patek, a bunt hit by Tom Poquette and Otis' double.

Gura, a left-hander who had started only one other game this season, began the year with the New York Yankees, the East Division champs, and got no work at all from Manager Billy Martin.

"He never even let me warm up in a game. He gave me different reasons, and I found out later he was feeding me a bunch of lies," said Gura, whose earned run average in 19 games with Kansas City is 2.42.

"I'd like to start all three playoff games against the Yankees," he added. "But my arm probably wouldn't hold up, and I'd be so keyed up I might throw the ball against the back screen."

Pomona, Upland open SAL action

By MIKE BROSSART
PB Staff Writer

San Antonio and Hacienda League play will begin tonight with one game in each league while Chaffey High continues its pre-league schedule.

Upland and Pomona, the teams that finished third and fourth respectively in last year's SAL standings, will square off at Mt. San Antonio College while Alta Loma, one of two undefeated teams in the HL, travels to Baldwin Park High to play Sierra Vista.

The matchup between the Braves and Dons was originally scheduled for Friday night at Sierra Vista, but the Dons' stadium was not completed in time and the site and time were changed.

Meanwhile, Chaffey will host Angelus League power Servite at Graber Stadium. All three of tonight's prep games will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Neither Upland nor Pomona has a win to its credit after two weeks' of non-league play, but both have lost to top-notch opponents.

The Red Devils opened their season with a 22-6 setback to Monrovia, the defending Mission Valley League champion and currently the 11th-ranked team in the CIF's 3A division.

Last week Pomona traveled to Vista, San Diego County's fifth ranked team going into the game. The Devils lost by a touchdown, 20-14.

Meanwhile, the Highlanders opened with a 23-0 loss to the Sierra League's West Covina, currently the No. 11 team in the CIF 4A poll.

But last week Upland lost to a team it was expected to beat, Alta Loma. The Braves rolled over the Highlanders, 22-6.

That win was Alta Loma's second over a SAL team this year. The first was a 19-3 win over Montclair.

Those two scores have earned the Braves the No. 3 spot in the valley on both offense and defense after three games with an average of 20.5 points for, 4.5 against.

Alta Loma will open HL play against a team that has scored seven points and surrendered 55 in two contests. Sierra Vista opened the season with a 14-6 loss to neighbor Baldwin Park and then went to Las Vegas, where the Dons were swamped by Western High, 41-0.

Chaffey figures to have its hands full with Servite. The Friars have yet to yield a point in 1976 after wins over Newport Harbor (13-0) and North Torrance (35-0). Servite's defense is led by 6-foot-2, 210-pound linebacker Mike Kenlon, a Prep Sports Magazine pre-season All-America honorable mention pick.

Chaffey is 1-1 after opening with a 20-12 win over Pasadena and then losing to Edgewood, 10-0.

CBS will show Ali-Norton fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Barry Frank, vice president of CBS, announced Tuesday that the controversial Muhammad Ali-Ken Norton heavyweight title fight will be shown Friday, Oct. 22 from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., EDT.

As a preview, a two-minute highlight of the fight will be shown on CBS Sports Spectacular this Saturday, including parts of the decisive 15th round, starting at 4:30 p.m.

For the Oct. 22 telecast, Tom Brookshire did the blowby-blow commentary on the Tuesday night fight at Yankee Stadium, while former heavyweight contender Jerry Quarry did the color commentary.

Prep Athlete of the Week

MIKE EVANS

Mike Evans of Chaffey High has been named the Progress Bulletin's second Prep Athlete of the Week for 1976.

Evans, a junior water polo player, scored 20 goals in five games for the Tigers last week in the prestigious Moore Invitational Tournament in Long Beach.

The 6-foot, 165-pound junior scored six goals in Chaffey's 10-9 win over Mission Viejo, six more in a 12-10 victory over Los Alamitos, three in a 14-6 loss to Newport Harbor's JV team, two in a 12-6 loss to Huntington Beach and three in a 14-7 loss to Mira Costa.

Pomona Elks Lodge 789 will present a plaque to Evans at a dinner at the lodge on Oct. 13.

Mira Costa is ranked third and Huntington Beach seventh in the first CIF 4A water polo poll. Newport Harbor is rated second behind Moore tournament winner Sunny Hills, and the Newport Harbor JV team finished ninth in the tourney.

Chaffey, seeded 31st among the tournament's 32 teams, finished 12th and earned 10th place in the first CIF 4A poll.

"As a junior, Evans is the most exciting polo player I've ever coached," said Coach George Harris of the Tigers.

"His potential is unlimited. He has the ability to become one of the most effective players in the CIF."

Evans' goal is to break the school's season scoring record set by his brother Steve Evans, currently a varsity player as a freshman at Cal Poly Pomona. Steve scored 131 goals in 21 games.

The other three nominees for the Player of the Week Award were all football players.

Kevin Morgan of Walnut gained 152 yards rushing in 29 carries for a 5.2 average and caught two passes, including a 76-yard TD. Morgan added a two-point conversion by rushing in the Mustangs' win over Rowland.

Damien High's Dan Marconi, a junior quarterback, completed 10 of 18 passes for 134 yards and three touchdowns in the Spartans' 34-21 win over San Gabriel. He also passed for a two-point conversion.

Bonita's Dan Thompson, a senior cornerback, starred defensively for the Bearcats in a 0-0 tie with Azusa. He intercepted two passes and batted down two as well as making five unassisted tackles and four assisted.

Hacienda race exciting

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Gridiron Genius

Egad, my favorite time of the year has crept up on me!

Yas, friends, it's time for the local high schools to begin league play, much to this writer's delight. Having worked extra-hard this time around to ensure the accuracy of my predictions, I can now reveal for the first time — heh-heh — the projected outcomes of this week's pigskin action.

Grid activity promises to be especially interesting in the Hacienda League, with two "Titantics" looming on the horizon in the Bonita-Royal Oak and San Dimas-Walnut clashes.

After due consideration, the justly famous Hoople system has the Bearcats winning 10-9 over the Romans in a defensive battle "royal". Har-rumph!

In that other classic matchup, look for the Saints and Mustangs to stage an all-out offensive war prior to San Dimas prevailing by a 29-24 count. Jove, you statisticians had better bring your pocket calculators to that one to keep up with the yardage of Fred Carter, Kevin Morgan, et al!

The little ol' schedule-maker has provided some interesting matchups in the San Antonio League as well.

All four SAL contests figure to be closer than some other "pigskin prophets" might have you think. For example, many look for Chino to bomb Claremont, but this correspondent foresees the Cowboys prevailing only after a real tussle. Yas, it will be Chino 10, Claremont 0 in another game with the accent on defense!

In a showdown between two of the stronger teams in the SAL, Pomona and Upland should provide a good show for you local fans, the Devils burning the Highlanders by a lone touchdown, 16-10.

Another exciting game will see Garey's Vikings hold off Montclair's surprising Cavaliers by a 16-13 count, while Damien and Ganesha figure to tumble around on the turf before the Spartans finally emerge victorious 34-27 in a wild one. Kaff-kaff, those results should hold even the most ardent football filberts for another week!

Onward to the colleges!! Cal Poly's Broncos will travel to the deep South, y'all, to play Mississippi State this Saturday. The Broncs will look like a million bucks in that one — in Confederate money! Seriously folks, Mississippi St. will have too much of everything for our local lads, and figures to trounce Poly 38-10.

Major Hoople's Football Forecast

Cheerier news awaits La Verne, as Roland Ortmayer's Leos will push their mark to 2-0 with a win over valley rival Pomona-Pitzer 33-24. Our other SCIAC squad, Claremont-Mudd, will make another good showing but will be nosed out again, this time by Cal Lutheran and a 21-19 count.

On the junior college scene, MSAC will keep its unblemished record intact with a 28-7 shelling of L.A. Harbor, while Citrus will score an exciting 14-12 win over Rio Hondo.

The national collegiate picture this week is dominated by the UCLA-Ohio State "colossal".

After the Bruins stunning upset in the Rose Bowl, Woody Hayes and his Buckeyes have thought of little else during the intervening 274 days.

Yas, my friends, that Bruin conquest was a bitter pill for the Columbus contingent to swallow and, one might say — heh-heh — it made them a little ill. And for the record they intend to get well this Saturday.

Beating Ohio State anywhere, anytime is difficult and beating them in Columbus is almost impossible so the UCLA lads have their work cut out for them. Both Ohio State and UCLA have devastating attacks capable of rolling up 500 yards each in a single afternoon, therefore we look for a high scoring affair. We believe Pete Johnson, Jeff Logan and Ron Gerald should put more points on the board than the Uclans talented duo Jeff Dankworth and Theotis Brown. The Hoople Forecast: Ohio State 35, UCLA 31 — Har-rumph!

There are many other big games around the country with three of them slated for the Southeast Conference. The top attraction will pit Alabama against Georgia at Athens. Our Atlanta correspondent, Georgie Peech, having watched both teams in action, gives the edge to the Bulldogs. His forecast is Georgia 24, Alabama 22. Jove, that's close!

In the other Southeastern meetings we like Mississippi over Auburn, 21-7, and Florida to defeat LSU, 22-12.

Elsewhere, the Hoople computers predict: Pittsburgh 28, Duke 6; South Caroline 27, Baylor 7; Missouri 21, North Carolina 10; Colorado 37, Drake 14; Michigan 35, Wake Forest 20; Boston College 16, Navy 12; Penn State 22, Kentucky 18; Texas A&M 13, Illinois 10, and Kansas 24, Wisconsin 17.

Saving the best for last, the Hoople Upset of the Day: Iowa State 28, Oklahoma 26. That's right, dear readers, the Cyclones, who have won only four times out of 48 in this series, will do the Sooners in this Saturday. And remember you read it first in the Hoople Forecast — Har-rumph!

Thunder Papa claims Derby

Coming off a narrow defeat in last Wednesday's Derby Trial Stakes, Pauline Walker's Thunder Papa claimed a three-quarter length victory in Wednesday's $21,920 Pomona Derby, before 9,161 in attendance.

Jockey John Ishihara, who had ridden Thunder Papa in his last eight starts, had the gelded son of Fitness on or near the lead throughout the mile and one-eighth of the titular three-year-old event. Boton Ball came on again gamely to be second under Rudy Campas, and public favorite and trial victor Nigretas Pleasure finished one and one-quarter lengths behind the winner in third.

Thunder Papa was bred by his owner in California and is trained by Mrs. Walker's husband, Van. With his fifth triumph in 13 outings this year, the Northern California development earned $12,920. Thunder Papa completed the distance in 1.51, which was one second off the Derby record.

Nigretas Pleasure, who had previously accounted for the Gateway to Glory Stakes here last season, as well as the Derby Trial, raced closer to the pace than expected for jockey Bobby Howard. The even money favorite, carrying top weight of 122 pounds, attempted to close ground the second time down the backstretch but never did reach the winner.

Double Dealer finished fourth in the Derby, and he was followed across the line of finish by Articulation, Hi Zacla and Forget The Showers. Frivolous Mischief was scratched from the field of eight.

As second choice, Thunder Papa returned $6.40, $4.00 and $2.60. Boton Ball paid $16.80 and $4.40 while Nigretas Pleasure was good for a $2.40 mutuel for show.

Beau Brummel stakes winner Tulsea will contest the Los Angeles County Fair's $16,945 Gateway to Glory Stakes against eight two-year-old rivals Friday, the next-to-last day of Pomona's 1976 meeting.

A chestnut gelding by King Of The Sea, Tulsea is owned by George Achterberg and trained by L.J. Brooks.

Sports briefs

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Third base Coach Preston Gomez has informed the St. Louis Cardinals he will not return to that post in 1977, the National League club said Wednesday.

Gomez, 53, was quoted by the Cardinals as expressing a preference for returning to the West Coast near his Santa Monica, Calif., home "if I'm going to coach."

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Spurred by inquiries from other major league baseball owners, the St. Louis Cardinals gave General Manager Bing Devine a new two-year contract Wednesday.

Devine's contract, which included a raise in pay, ended speculation he would be fired for the Cardinals' lacklustre performance this season.

In addition, the business end of Devine's job will henceforth be delegated to vice presidents Jim Toomey and Joe McShane.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington Redskins Coach George Allen says quarterback Bill Kilmer is questionable for Sunday's National Football League game against the Chicago Bears.

Kilmer bruised his upper right arm and shoulder when he was decked by Phildelphia Eagles defender Will Wynn during the overtime period in Monday night's game.

Kilmer has not been put on the Redskins' injury list and he said Wednesday that he expects to start against the Bears.

Mountie mentor has explanation for wins

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

Mt. San Antonio College's fast 3-0 start in football this year has surprised a lot of people, but Mountie coach Mal Eaton is not one of them.

The Mounties, coming off a horrid 1-9 season, have marched past three straight opponents and are looking more impressive with each outing.

Their 3-0 mark is the school's best grid start since 1972, when a Steve Myer-quarterbacked squad went 4-0 before losing.

That MSAC team finished the year with a 5-5 overall ledger, the best mark Eaton has posted since taking over the Mountie coaching job in 1970.

However, if this year's edition of the Mounties stay healthy they should surpass that 5-5 mark and come up with the school's first winning year since 1967, when Dennis Shaw led a Mountie team to a 7-2 campaign.

Success hasn't been a MSAC trademark on the gridiron (the school has never won a South Coast Conference football title), but 1976 may well be the year all that changes.

Eaton's Mounties have looked very impressive in whipping three talented opponents, and figure to make that four Saturday night vs. L.A. Harbor.

The secret of their success this fall? Eaton feels it centers around a solid corps of sophomores.

"I've always felt that you can't win in JC ball without a lot of experienced sophomores," the MSAC skipper said earlier this season. "This year, for the first time since I have been at MSAC, we have those sophomores.

"Sure we took our lumps last year, but I think it is paying off in the long run. Our kids know what they are up against in our league and in JC ball in general. The competition is really rough."

MAL EATON . . .
MSAC skipper

Nowhere is the Mountie experience more noticable or valuable than in the linebacking corps.

The starting trio of Jay Giangrogorio, Brian Anderson and Mike Zamora all played extensively last year. This fall all three have been outstanding.

Led by the three linebackers, the Mountie defense has limited opponents to only 34 points in three games, an 11.3 average.

Contrast that team performance with last year, when the Mounties gave up 30 or more points in FIVE, of their ten games.

Other experienced sophomores in the MSAC lineup are defensive backs Larry Vicino, Alonzo Blackwell and Napoleon Sparks, and linemen Jeff Leyva and Ben Lopez. All have played well in MSAC's three wins.

Eaton also feels his team is vastly improved from last year in another area — conditioning.

"One thing I've noticed about this team is that our players have been stronger in the fourth quarter," Eaton said. "The conditioning they've done has paid off.

"These players will continue to see how important conditioning is when they see the results at the end of the game."

That keen conditioning has to be regarded as a big factor in the effectiveness of the Mountie running game.

MSAC has averaged over 200 yards per contest on the ground, led by halfback Mike Hill with 275 yards on 55 carries, a 5.0 average gain per tote.

Fullback Dana Hutchinson has added 161 yards on 42 carries, while quarterback Brian Bethke has dashed for 131 yards on 38 attempts.

Bethke and backup signal caller Steve Taylor have combined to click on 17 of 26 passes in three outings, good for four TDs.

Perhaps more importantly, neither has thrown an interception during that time. In contrast, the alert Mountie defense has picked off six enemy passes, including four in the win vs. Glendale last week.

Those sort of stats tell the story after three weeks. The Mounties are very much for real and will have to be hankered with in the race for the SCC title.

Ryan's season a success

ANAHEIM (AP) — Nolan Ryan reflected upon his implausible and improbable season, a season that was full of doubt last spring when he came off elbow surgery not knowing if he could ever throw effectively again.

"I guess I'd have to say I'm most pleased by my strikeout and walk totals," he smiled at a questioner. "The figures prove I haven't lost anything — my fastballs or my wildness."

Chalk up one highly successful surgery.

Ryan proved this season he is as good as new. He has worked 275 innings and leads the majors in strikeouts with 313.

He added 11 more K's to his total Wednesday night, hurling a two-hitter to blank the Chicago White Sox, 3-0. The shutout was his sixth of the season, tying him for the American League lead along with Vida Blue, Bert Blyleven and Jim Palmer. The compete game was his 20th.

"If I had any doubts at the start of the season," Ryan confessed, "it was whether my arm would stand the strain of a long season. I guess it did."

Ryan upped his record to 15-18 with his two-hitter, his fifth win in six September starts.

But Ryan always is a strong finisher as evidenced by his 207 career record in September.

"Maybe I get tired and don't — or can't — overthrow," he theorized.

Ryan was separated from a no-hitter by Ralph Garr's first inning single and a ninth inning hit by Jim Spencer.

"The pitch to Garr was a bad one," Ryan said. "Poor location and poor selection. You don't pitch no-hitters making mistakes like that."

Ryan will not pitch again this year unless the Oakland A's are still in contention by Sunday — the final day of the year.

California concludes its home season tonight and will go over the one million mark in attendance for the seventh time in their 11 years in Anaheim. They need only 85 admissions to hit the plateau.

Sid Monge (5-7) will oppose White Sox rookie Larry Monroe (0-0).

The Angels gave Ryan the only run he needed to outduel Ken Brett, 10-12, in the second inning on a throwing error by Bill Stein and a run-scoring single by Andy Etchebarren. The Angels scored again in the third on a double by Rusty Torres and a single by Ron Jackson before adding their final run in the seventh when Mike Miley doubled and Dave Collins singled.

Poly's Herrera seeks pro job

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

Armando Herrera, Cal Poly's new place kicker-punter, didn't get a chance to watch his older brother, Efren, kick a 32-yard field goal with three seconds left to give the Dallas Cowboys a 30-27 win over the Baltimore Colts Sunday.

"No, I didn't see it," Armando said. "I was busy Sunday moving into my new apartment."

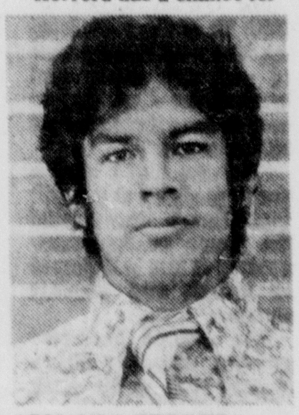
If all goes well, the younger Herrera someday would like to join Efren, the former UCLA star, in the National Football League.

The Cal Poly coaches feel Armando has a chance.

"He has a hell of a future," says Mike Steinhour, Poly's defensive coordinator, "because he can do both things. In this day of specialization in the pros, the ability to punt and place kick is valuable. And Armando is just learning how to punt."

Jimmy Skipper, a Poly coach who has spent a lot of time with Herrera, adds, "Armando isn't a typical kicker. He is quite a competitor on the field and a complete team player. He saved a touchdown for us last week by tackling a San Francisco State runner on a punt return."

Herrera has a chance for



ARMANDO HERRERA . . .
Bronco kicker

some national exposure during the next three weeks when Poly tackles major college opposition on the road in trips to Mississippi State this Saturday followed by North Texas and Northern Arizona.

"This is a good opportunity for me," Armando agrees. "I hope I get a chance to win or tie a game with a last second field goal."

It was natural that Armando would follow his brother into football after the Herrera family moved to La Puente from Guadalajara, Mexico when Armando was 13.

"We played football in the streets in Mexico but it was different here," Armando said. "Efren wanted me to play football because it was a good way to go to college."

Herrera spent two seasons at Mt. San Antonio College after graduating from La Puente High. However, he got into only two games at MSAC last year because of a knee injury.

The injury has contributed to his slow start at Poly this season, Herrera says.

"I'm doing bad," Armando said. "I know I can average about 45 yards per punt and can go as far as 65 yards on a field goal. It has taken me a couple of games to get my rhythm back."

He got off to a slow start in the opening 10-10 tie against Cal State Fullerton with an average of 33 yards per punt. But he averaged 40 on six kicks last week to give him a 36.7 average for the season.

Armando hasn't had much of an opportunity yet this season to display his field goal talents. He has connected on one of three tries in making a 31-yarder but missing on tries of 47 and 36.

His longest field goal was a 48-yarder at La Puente.

Herrera is happy he can also punt.

"La Puente didn't have a punter so I gave it a try," he said. "I like it because it gives me a chance to play."

Armando feels he has improved since arriving at Poly.

"Steinhour and Skipper have helped me a lot especially by videotaping my form," he said.

BRONC BUSTERS — Poly will fly to Columbus, Miss. on a 10 a.m. charter flight from Ontario Friday. The Broncs will return to California after the game.

Mississippi State will be celebrating its Homecoming in Saturday's 11:30 a.m. (PDT) game. This will be the third and final game this season for the Bulldogs at Scott Field (capacity 35,000) on its campus located just outside of Starkville. MSU plays its big Southwestern Conference games in Jackson.

Obviously, Poly (0-2-1) is a big underdog against its SEC foe. The Associated Press, which predicts the college games on a weekly basis, picks Mississippi State to win by a 49-0 score.

Poly's top layers last week were halfback Mark Sanders on offense and linebacker Rick Kluck on defense. Sanders rushed for 102 yards and two touchdowns on 14 carries while Kluck was credited with 17 tackles.

Prep cross country teams open this week

Cross country league meets in both the San Antonio League and the Hacienda leagues begin this week. All four SAL meets are scheduled for this afternoon while three HL meets will go Friday. Alta Loma and Sierra Vista got the jump on the rest of the HL schools with a rescheduled meet yesterday at Alta Loma.

Upland will be going after its 10th straight league title under Bob Loney and the Highlanders are favored to make it. They are ranked second in the CIF 3A poll.

The Scots are led by seniors Roger Innes, Mark and Mike Trilevsky, Scott Sager and Mike Harden and juniors Keith Van Lieu and John Scheerer.

Upland will open against one of its chief league opponents today at Pomona.

Frank Hardy has taken over the cross country reins from Gene Abernathy and expects to finish in the top three in the league. Hardy, a 1973 graduate of La Verne College, was assistant cross country coach and distance coach for the Red Devil track team last year.

Hardy lists Jimmy Dean, Louis Gamble, Eddie Allen, Joseph Villegas, a transfer from Glendale High, and Shawn Price as his top runners.

Another good matchup today sends Chino to Claremont. Chino also has a new coach in Richard Fellows, a Chino High graduate, and some good returning runners in Paul Perez, Zeke Rodriguez and Nick Yatsko.

Claremont's Rich Martinez lists a pair of sophomores as his top performers. Lock Breaux and George Waters placed one-two in a division of 150 runners last week at the Long Beach Invitational, both under 10 minutes. Junior Scott Ralf and seniors Dennis McCutcheon and David Ramaley round out Claremont's top five.

Today's other matches send Garey to Montclair and Damien to Ganesha. All four meets were scheduled to begin at 3:15.

Walnut figures to be the class of the HL again this year, and is ranked sixth in the CIF 2A. Jim Polite's top runners are David Allen, Dave Mendoza, Tim Ball and Ken Zalud but the top individual in the league is two-time league champ Joel Hope of Alta Loma.

Friday's HL meets send San Dimas to Walnut, Royal Oak to Bonita and Ontario to Gladstone, all at 3:15 p.m.

Bronco volleyball squad is touted

Barbara Anderson, head coach of Cal Poly Women's Volleyball Team, feels that the 1976 edition of the Bronco spikers "have a great deal of potential."

The volleyball squad opens its season this Friday at 7:30 p.m. in the Cal Poly Pomona Women's gym against sister-school Cal Poly San Luis Obispo.

The Broncos have joined a new conference, the Southern California Athletic Association, and as Anderson said, "it should be a highly competitive league." Other members include Cal State Los Angeles, UC Santa Barbara, UC Irvine, Cal State Northridge, and Cal Poly San Luis Obispo.

Cal Poly Pomona finished fourth in the small college nationals last year, and Anderson felt the team was definitely on the upswing.

"The play we finished up with in the nationals was the best of the season," Anderson noted. "We were playing good solid volleyball all the way around. Technique-wise we were even better than some of the teams that finished ahead of us."

The Broncos will have three returning players from last season's starting squad. A pair of consistent setters in Becky Bruce and DeDee Ruiz and a strong hitter, Debbie Davis, are the returnees.

In practice sessions, Coach Anderson has been impressed by transfer student Margaret Rebenar (Arizona State) and freshman Alison Voet (Cypress High). "Margaret is probably our strongest hitter offensively," said Anderson.

Cavs, 'Pack triumph

Claremont and Montclair scored prep water polo wins Wednesday afternoon.

The Cavaliers downed host Nogales High by a 22-1 count, while the Wolfpack edged North of Riverside 24-20 in overtime.

Tom Maples, Randy Fishbaugh and Jim Rankin led the Montclair win over Nogales with five goals apiece. Goalie Jack Dupkewicz registered five saves for the winners. Sam Nisbett added four scores for the Cavs as the locals ran their season mark to 2-4.

Claremont used a nine-goal performance by John Borland to overcome host North. Charles Abbott added five goals and John Oliver four for the 'Pack, while Jim Gaylord was their top defensive player.

Claremont advanced its pool mark to 3-2 with the victory.

The Cavs return to action on Friday at home vs. La Puente in a 3:15 p.m. start. The Wolfpack swimmers will not return to action until Monday, when they will host Redlands at the El Roble pool.

Owls chose Northridge

NORTHRIDGE — Two former Citrus College baseball stars have enrolled at Cal State Northridge and are expected to start on the Matadors' 1977 squad, Matador coach Bob Hiegert announced.

New CSUN players are Worth Valentine and Jim McCadden, both all-conference performers in Owl blue and white last year.

Sagehen booters edge Whittier

WHITTIER — Pomona-Pitzer's soccer squad stayed unbeaten here Wednesday with a surprisingly tough 1-0 decision over the host Whittier College in a SCIAC contest.

The Sagehens booters are now 2-0 on the young season.

Leon Thanopoulos scored the only goal of the contest Wednesday, as he put in an unassisted tally with only four minutes remaining in the contest.

Some sparkling defensive play by 'Hen goalie Greg Decker and defenseman Ron Thomas perserved saved the shutout, the second of the season for Pomona-Pitzer.

"We played below ourselves today, actually we did not deserve to win," Sagehen coach Charles Seward said afterward. "I think Whittier kind of caught us napping today, the next time we play them we will be ready to go."

Seward's squad faces a couple rough assignments this weekend, with games on tap at Cal Berkeley and Stanford.

The 'Hens face Berkeley on Friday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. and come back against Stanford on Saturday at 2 p.m.

Torero QB is honored

Andy Slimak, junior quarterback at the University of San Diego, was named the Miller California College Player of the Week for his exploits in the Toreros' 30-30 tie with United States International University.

Slimak, a transfer from USIU, turned on his former teammates by completing 19 of 27 passes for 342 yards and three touchdowns.

Previous winners of the Miller award are San Diego State's David Turner and linebacker Aaron Ball of Cal State Fullerton.

Local nominees were Cal Poly back Mark Sanders, La Verne defensive tackle John Herrera, Pomona-Pitzer back George Bushala and Claremont-Mudd linebacker Greg Palma.

Schultz becomes a King

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Kings have acquired one of hockey's most violent players.

The club announced Wednesday that it had acquired Dave Schultz from the Philadelphia Flyers for "future considerations."

Schultz, nicknamed "The Hammer" for his habit of beating opponents on the head, has become known in his four years in the National Hockey League as the game's meanest player.

The 26-year-old left winger has accumulated more penalty minutes — 1,386 — than all but eight other players did in their entire career. His single season record of 472 minutes in 1974-75 may never be broken.

The Kings said the club believes the addition of Schultz gives them the policeman they lost in 1975 when Dan Maloney was traded to Detroit in the Marcel Dionne deal. An enforcer protects his team's smaller players by retaliating against anyone who picks on them.

Sutcliffe's hurling gives Lasorda win

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Formally, Walter Alston is still the manager of the Los Angeles Dodgers until the end of the season.

But Tom Lasorda, named Wednesday to take over the club from Alston, who announced his retirement two days earlier after 23 years as the club's pilot, was at the helm Wednesday night against the Houston Astros.

The Dodgers won, 1-0, behind the combined three-hit pitching of rookie Rick Sutcliffe, who was making his big league debut, Stan Wall and Charlie Hough.

"We got just enough to win," said Lasorda, who added, "I'm still on cloud nine. This is the greatest day of my life."

It was the greatest day in the life of young Sutcliffe, too, who flew 10 of his relatives out from Kansas City to watch his first start in the majors.

He was impressive, allowing the Astros only two hits over five innings, before Wall took over for three and then Hough for the ninth.

"He was very impressive," said the 49-year-old Lasorda. "He hadn't pitched in a month and we didn't want him going too far."

The only run of the game came in the seventh when Bill Buckner singled with one out, only the Dodgers' second hit off loser Joe Sambito, 3-2, and Steve Garvey singled him home.

For Garvey it was his 199th hit of the year, leaving him with three games to get one more and become the first Dodger ever to have three straight 200-hit seasons.

"It looks like I have a pretty good shot at it now," said Garvey who started the month of September needing 43 hits in 32 games to reach the 200-hit plateau.

The Astros had two golden opportunities against Wall in the sixth and Hough in the ninth.

Cliff Johnson grounded into a double play in the sixth inning as Wall escaped from a bases-loaded jam. In the ninth Cesar Cedano walked with one out, stole second and continued to third on a throwing error by the catcher, Steve Yeager.

Lasorda then trotted to the mound to talk to Hough.

"I just told him to throw nothing but knuckleballs," said the rookie manager.

That's all he threw, striking out Johnson and pinch hitter Bob Watson for his 18th save of the year.

The win enabled the Dodgers to close out the season series against Houston with 13 wins in the 18 meetings.

Both clubs are idle Thursday. The Dodgers conclude the season with a three-game series against San Diego beginning Friday while the Astros end the season at home against San Francisco.

Kings notch first exhibition victory

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Veteran Tommy Williams and rookie Steve Clippingdale struck for third period goals to lead Los Angeles to a 5-3 National Hockey League victory Wednesday night for the Kings first exhibition triumph of the season.

The Kings, three ties and no losses, grabbed a 3-2 lead at 7:08 of the second period on a power play goal by defenseman Ab DeMarco, who beat Barons' goalie Gilles Melochie on a 45-foot flap shot.

Williams gave Los Angeles a 4-2 lead at 13:12 of the final period on a 20-footer which eluded Meloche.

Clippingdale, who played junior hockey in Canada last season, then scored his third goal to lead all King scorers and widen the Kings lead to 5-2.

Neil Komadoski and Gene Carr shot the Kings into a 2-0 lead in the first period, but Wayne Merrick and Dave Gardner beat Kings goalie Rogie Vachon to tie it at 2-2. Cleveland's final goal was scored by Gary holt with 3:12 left to play.

Sun rolls over Colts

The Claremont Sun (2-0) will risk its unbeaten record in the Midget Division of Pop Warner football in an 11 a.m. game Sunday at Diamond Bar against the Dons.

Don Sanders led the Sun to a 28-0 win over the Chino Colts last Sunday by scoring two of his team's four touchdowns and rushing for 121 yards on 11 carries.

Buddy Mathews ran for 54 yards and one TD while Michael James added 56 yards and the fourth TD. Gary Williams kicked a pair of two-point conversions.

The Sun defense held the Colts to 35 yards while the offense rolled up 311 yards.

The U.S. Coast Guard says recreational boating accidents decreased in 1975 despite an increase in the number of registered boats.

Kicking around

With Adrian Mercado and Willie Keo

U.S.A VS. MEXICO IN WORLD CUP ELIMINATION MATCH. This Sunday the USA National Team will be facing the Mexico National Team at the Los Angeles Coliseum with a kickoff time slated for 3 p.m.

This is the big one! The U.S. is part of the Northern Group of the CONCACAF (North America, Central America and the Caribbean) together with Canada and Mexico. After a home-and-home tournament, one of the three teams will be eliminated with the other two remaining teams going on to the final round against the two other finalists from the Central Area and the Caribbean Area. Panama was eliminated from the Central Area by Costa Rica, and El Salvador; Guyana, Surinam, Netherland Antilles, Barbados, Trinidad-Tobago and Jamaica were eliminated by Cuba and Haiti.

The United States National Team is currently training at Golden West College for Sunday's match against Mexico at the Coliseum. This will be the second elimination game for Uncle Sam's squad — they tied Canada 1-1 in Empire Stadium, Vancouver, last Friday, U.S. Coach Walt Chyzowich was quoted as saying that "We had to play a man short for the last 17 minutes and it cost us the win. Although I thought we should have beaten Canada, I can't feel too bad about the tie because that's usually the most you can hope for in an away game."

The U.S. carried a 1-0 halftime lead into the second half on a goal by Boris Bandov of the Seattle Sounders, but that lead was short-lived when Canada gained the one man advantage as a result of an ejection. Steve Pecher, the North American Soccer League's Rookie of the Year who plays for Dallas Tornado, was red carded in the 73rd minute for an off-color remark about the official.

"I thought it was a bad call because Steve didn't direct his remarks to the official," said Chyzowych. "If we had lost I wouldn't have voiced my complaints because it would have sounded like sour grapes."

As to the possibilities of the U.S. squad qualifying for the next elimination rounds, Chyzowych said: "We can advance by tieing on the road and winning at home. We played our last game without seven players, three of them starters."

All three starters, Boris Bandov, Sam Bick, and Neil Cohen are expected to play against Mexico Sunday.

Before their first official encounter against Canada, the U.S. team toured South America to play five tune-up matches. The U.S. representatives tied twice and lost three games against very tough international competition. They surprised Peru's current champion Alianza Lima by tieing 0-0. The Peruvian press showered compliments upon the Yankees for their great physical conditioning and obvious improvement in technique. The U.S. squad also tied a Peruvian All-Star team 2-2.

Their first defeat came by way of Colombia's League Champions, Millonarios who struggled to down the North Americans 2-1 on a penalty kick. The game was played before a crowd of 30,000. Their next defeat came against Ecuador's Liga Deportiva Universitaria by a 1-0 score before 23,000 fans. Their last exhibition game was played in Venezuela against the Venezuelan National Champion Team Portuguesa.

THE U.S. NATIONAL TEAM ROSTER is as follows: Goalkeepers: Shep Messing, New York Cosmos; Arnold Mauser, Tampa Bay Rowdies.

Defenders: Steve Pecher, Dallas Tornado; Santiago Formoso, Hartford Bicentennials; Neil Cohen, Dallas Tornado; Sam Bick, Minnesota Kicks.

Midfielders: Dave D'Errico, Seattle Sounders; John Mason, Los Angeles Aztecs; Alex Skotarek, Chicago Stings; Steve Ralbovsky, Los Angeles Skyhawks; Miro Rys, Chicago Stings; Al Trost, St. Louis Stars.

Forwards: Boris Bandov, Seattle Sounders; Dan Counce, San Antonio Thunder; Joe Fink, Tampa Bay Rowdies; Fred Grgurev, New York Apollo; Dennis Wit, San Diego Jaws; Jim Pollihan, Rochester Lancers; Mike Flater, Minnesota Kicks.

The Mexican Team, on the other hand, trained for the upcoming matches against the U.S.A. and Canada by touring Spain. Our neighbors to the South defeated Spain's Cup Champions, Atletico de Madrid 1-0 before 100,000 fans and a week later played Elche to a 3-3 tie before 60,000 soccer fans. The Mexicans are considered to have improved their National Team over their last one of four years ago when Haiti edged them out of the right to represent the CONCACAF as one of the final sixteen teams in the 1974 World Cup.

Mexico's National Team coach, Ignacio Trelles, upon returning from the U.S.-Canada match stated that "the U.S.A. is no longer the 'clay pidgeon' of years past; they have improved in everything and we will have a tough task ahead of us over there (Los Angeles)". Asked about the disadvantages of being the visiting team Trelles further said: "I believe that in general terms if a team does not take advantage of playing at home it is due to inexperience. In Canada we will definitely be 'visitors', but that will not be the case against the U.S.A. in Los Angeles — the ambience or surroundings will be Mexican.

KICKIN AROUND encourages all soccer fans to go to the Coliseum this coming Sunday to root for the red-white-and blue and CHANGE the ambience to one that will support our national team. The United States Soccer Federation unknowingly has stacked the deck against its own team by allowing the promoters of the game, Azteca Promotions, to promote heavily among the Spanish-speaking community and light among the English-speaking community. La Opinion, and L.A. Express have been carrying banner-type ads encouraging their fans to go to the game; even the Mexican sports newspaper Esto is carrying a half-page ad featuring a full-team photograph of the Mexican National Team.

It has not been uncommon for the Latin-American fans living in Los Angeles to root for the visiting Mexican teams as evidenced in games where the L.A. Aztecs hosted teams from Mexico during their first year of play.

It would be a national disgrace to have our National Soccer Team handicapped by playing before an unsupportive crowd at home. Although the adult tickets are priced at $6 the children's tickets (under 18) is only one dollar.

So, load up your car with kids and take off this Sunday for the L.A. Coliseum to cheer and lend support to our boys. We wouldn't miss this game for all the tequila in the world so join us there and be a part of the World Cup excitement.

These two teams will again meet on Friday, Oct. 15 in Cuauhtemoc Stadium, Puebla, Mexico. On Oct. 20, the U.S.A. hosts Canada at the Kingdome in Seattle, Wash.

MEANWHILE BACK IN PUERTO RICO, the U.S.A. National Junior Team clobbered Santo Domingo 9-0 to take the lead in the Semifinal Round of the CONCACAF Junior Tournament. Our local hero, Rick ("The Shot") Davis, scored a three-goal "hat trick" to tie for the scoring lead with five.

Of the original 20 teams only four remain; the two top teams will represent the CONCACAF in Tunisia, North Africa, for next year's Youth World Cup. Coca Cola, an Atlanta base Corporation is sponsoring this tournament.

DIVISION I ACTION — Tom Rundel of the Thunder, left, and Mark Hunter of the Aztecs go after soccer ball in AYSO Division I action in Claremont. The league has been formed for high school students in the off season.

Bruins, Vikes win

Both the Pomona Bruins and the Pomona Vikings scored wins in Junior All-American youth football action this past weekend.

The Bruins edged the Duarte Gorillas 7-6 while the Vikings beat the Glendora Tartars 26-13.

Bruins split end Douglas Brown recovered a fumble in the end zone for the lone Pomona score. Halfback Tony Burns added the PAT and what proved to be the game-winning score.

The Bruin TD had been set up by a 42-yard dash by Tony Burns on a fourth-down reverse. On fourth down on the one-yard line following Burn's big play, quarterback Darrell Ford plunged into the end zone only to fumble the football.

However, Brown was right there to scoop up the loose ball for the TD.

The Vikings used a complete team effort to stop Glendora. Chris Durel set to the pace for the game by returning the opening kickoff 76 yards for a touchdown. He also scored later on a run of 87 yards and netted 180 yards on only eight totes.

The Bruins will play the Rowland Heights Raiders Sunday at 3 p.m. at Pomona High as Jr. All-American action continues. The Vikings will face the same team on Saturday afternoon at 1 p.m., again at Pomona High.

"My brother, Jim, called me and said that Dad felt I was hitting the hole too fast. So I backed up a yard and it worked." — Two-time Heisman Trophy winner Archie Griffin, after he rushed for 78 yards and a touchdown, his best day as a pro, in Cincinnati's 28-7 victory over Green Bay.

Family closeness

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: We never watched TV more than an hour or two each evening. But now, since my husband's return from the hospital as a terminal patient, we spend five or six hours a day with TV. I try to get the children to spend more time outdoors but they prefer to sit with their father in the living room. Isn't this too much TV? — A.L.

Dear A.L.: I believe in this situation heavy television-viewing may be serving a useful purpose. It can be used as a means of coping with rising family tension. Your children want to be with their father, to feel his closeness and to have him feel theirs, and they have chosen this way to express their affection and devotion. There is nothing wrong with this. However, I suggest you try to encourage conversation even though it is painful.

Let your children know that it's all right to express their feelings openly and directly. Encourage them not to hide their emotions. The more they can show their love now, the less guilt they will feel when your husband dies.

You and your children may also have feelings of anger because of your husband's illness. Feelings of rage are not abnormal or unusual in such situations. Once again, the important thing is to admit them to yourselves and to each other when your husband isn't present so that they'll be understood and the rage won't be directed against him.

DEAR DR. BROTHERS: My 16-year-old fell in love with the adopted son of a friend of ours whose real parents were junkies. He practically lived in the streets for the first few years of his life. One parent died from an overdose, the other was killed. I feel sorry for him though he now has a wonderful home. But he's treating my daughter very badly. I know he sleeps with her and everyone else. He doesn't understand loyalty or honor. What can we do? — H.K.

Dear H.K.: I'm afraid your daughter will have to learn the hard way. Parents who try to break up the romances of their adolescents generally have very little success. I do believe, however, that 16-year-olds of either sex need strong discipline and guidance when it comes to dating, and should obey curfews. I realize this doesn't prevent sexual activity. A youngster who wants to have sexual relationships can find ways to get around parents.

Most teen-agers, however, aren't ready or able to cope with today's sexual freedom. The result of their inability manifests itself in high rates in VD, out-of-wedlock births, abortion and a high rate of child abuse in those teenagers who opt for keeping their children.

This young man was robbed of love and attachment during his formative years and the emotional damage that resulted from this deprivation may be permanent. The child whose mother is an addict is virtually a motherless child and is bound to suffer from this background of emotional poverty.

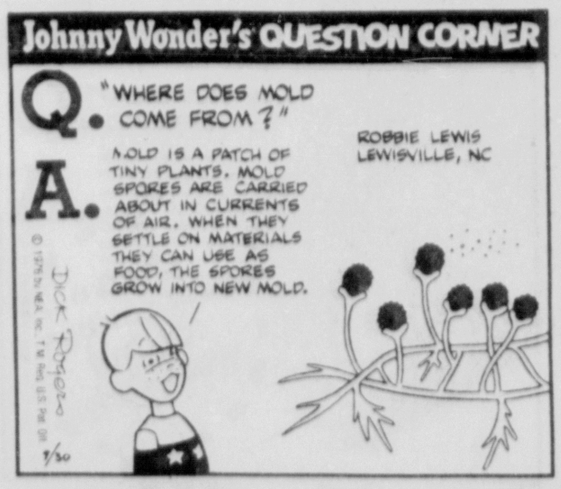
JOHNNY WONDER



If a piece of bread is left in a warm, moist place for several days it becomes covered with a fuzzy patch of mold. The mold comes from tiny spores in the air, the seeds of mold.

Mold is really a tiny, simple plant. Molds lack chlorophyll, the green coloring matter that enables most other plants to make their own food. They must live on food made by other plants or animals.

If you examine a patch of mold with a magnifying glass, you will see a tangle of threadlike growths that cover the bread.

The threads serve much the same purpose as roots. Through them, the mold gets nourishment from the bread.

Small branchlike rods topped with tiny black balls grow upward from the threads.

These are sporecases, containing thousands of spores.

When the spores are ripe, they burst from the spore cases and are carried away by air currents. These spores settle on damp foods or decaying matter and grow into new mold.

A fine prize will be awarded to the first youngster sending in a question used here. Send your question and your age to Johnny Wonder, (c/o this newspaper).

Shelley Winters

Now in Disney-land

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I haven't felt so tired since I was a size 10 at Universal," panted Shelley Winters, staggering from a dance rehearsal. "And to think that I once was a jitterbug champ!"

The remarkable career of Winters continues its unrelenting course. She has been a sexpot ("South Seas Sinner"), dramatic actress ("A Double Life," "A Place in the Sun"), Academy award winner ("The Diary of Anne Frank," "A Patch of Blue"), Broadway musical star ("Minnie's Boys"), movie menace ("Bloody Mama"), quintessential Jewish mother ("Next Stop, Greenwich Village").

Having appeared in "Lolita" and "Alfie," she now finds herself at Walt Disney Productions, singing and dancing as the mean stepmother in "Pete's Dragon," the studio's most ambitious musical since "Mary Poppins."

"I never thought I'd work at Disney, but I'm glad I am," said the actress. "It's the last of the big studios — the way MGM used to be in the old days."

Miss Winters was puffing after a drill with choreographer Onna White ("The Music Man") — "she had us leaping over rocks; I'm too old for this kind of thing. And too fat."

The Winters weight now lingers around 160, and the matter both obsesses and bores her. Everyone knows how she started as a fat Dutch housewife in "Anne Frank" at 170 pounds, dwindled to 120 by the end of filming. She was living evidence of the Nazi ordeal, and the performance drew her first Oscar as supporting actress.

"I was younger then, and I could take off pounds easily," she remarked. "My downfall was 'The Poseidon Adventure.' Twentieth Century-Fox wanted me to weigh 200, and they were willing to finance me in all the best restaurants of New York. I couldn't resist.

"Later I found out I could have faked the weight with padding. But you can't fake a double chin.

"I was a size 8 and 10 when I was at Universal. Right now I'd settle for a 14. During the week it's easy. I have toast, orange juice and the Hollywood Reporter for breakfast, buttermilk for lunch, steak, salad and malon for dinner. I lose three pounds during the week, but I gain three pounds on the weekend."

She declines artificial aids to enhance her appearance, except on talk shows when she uses tapes to give her face a slight lift. "I know several actresses who have had their faces lifted, but I couldn't do it," she said. "Those ladies look great — but they don't look like themselves."

So she continues being shlumpy Shelley, and that's not bad. Many another actress would like to work as steadily and as diversely as Winters (born Shirley Shrift). Before "Pete's Dragon," she appeared as John Huston's wife in a movie made in San Diego by an Italian company; next she may film in India.

She enjoys playing the game-and-talk-show circuit, recently guest-hosted for Johnny Carson ("I asked Desi Arnaz why he and Lucy had succeeded in TV and failed in marriage, and he started to cry"). She also tours in such plays as "Virginia Woolf" and "Gamma Rays" ("I insist that theaters don't charge too much — $5 for adults, $2-3 for students.")

Not having enough to do, she is currently teaching a class at the Actor's Studio.

"That's the way to keep young: stay around young people," she explained.

All her activity should have made Shelley rich. She claims that wealth has eluded her. She even declined a percentage of the blockbuster "Poseidon Adventure," taking a flat salary instead.

WINTERS SCENE — Shelley Winters is shown in a scene from the Walt Disney Productions movie, "Pete's Dragon," in which she will be dancing and singing as the mean stepmother. The studio calls it the most ambitious musical since "Mary Poppins."

Thurber show due at Garrison

William Windom will present his one-man show, "William Windom Plays Thurber," in Garrison Theater, Claremont, at 8 p.m. Oct. 15 and 16.

Windom is best known for his Emmy Award-winning role in "My World and Welcome To It", based on the work of James Thurber. He also played the male lead in "The Farmer's Daughter" on ABC-TV.

Other television appearances include the leads in "Big Fish, Little Fish" (NET), "They're Tearing Down Tim Riley's Bar" (Night Gallery) and Marcus Welby, M.D. and All In The Family segments.

Other film credits are "The Man" (in which he played the Secretary of State), "Escape from the Planet of the Apes" (President of the U.S.), "Fool's Parade" (dynamite salesman), "Brewster McCloud" (civic blowhard) and "To Kill A Mockingbird" (the district attorney).

Windom's years in New York (1946-61) encompass 18 Broadway and five off-Broadway efforts. He started in 1945 as Richard III, however, Thurber is his current favorite.

Tickets may be obtained by telephoning 626-4523 and charging to BankAmericard or Master Charge.

FCC alert to benefit handicapped

A decision by the Federal Communications Commission requires television stations to transmit visual emergency warnings of impending disasters to the deaf.

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., a member of the Senate Subcommittee on the Handicapped, said the decision will provide protection for 186,000 totally deaf Californians and 4.8 million deaf and severely hard-of-hearing Americans.

Under the decision, visual transmission may include any method a television station chooses — electronic captioning, hand printed cards, sign language, or mechanical printing processes, as long as the full meaning of the emergency warning is made clear to a deaf viewer.

Tahoe casino foes receive major break

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. has signed a bill that would make it easier for casino foes to reject proposed construction on the Nevada side of Lake Tahoe.

The measure would revamp the California-Nevada Tahoe Regional Planning Agency, a bi-state body that has operated in such a way that the California side alone can't block a proposed hotel or casino.

However, the bi-state legislation must be ratified by the Nevada legislature and the U.S. Congress before the agency could be changed, and Nevada action likely will put the issue through the California legislature again.

The measure's author, Assemblyman Eugene Gualco, D-Sacramento, had said Nevada lawmakers are certain to veto a provision in the bill that would block construction of hotels or casinos already approved.

The bill signed by Brown would expand membership of the agency from 10 to 14, adding two members from each state. Nonlocal representatives could wind up with majority votes on each side of Lake Tahoe.

Environmentalist backers of the measure say local government representatives are influenced by developers and gambling interests.

Its key provision would scrap a requirement that any proposed development is approved unless a majority of both state delegations reject it within 60 days. Instead, a project would not be approved unless a majority of both delegations vote for it.

One opponent, Assemblyman Gene Chappie, R-Roseville, has said, "This will do nothing more than stir up the people of Nevada. People in Nevada do not want this bill."

Local government officials in the basin opposed the bill because they could not appoint a majority on the California delegation, so "We'd be the jackpot in every vote," South Lake Tahoe Mayor Roger Capri has said.

The bill is AB 4160.

Reagan will aid political friend

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Ronald Reagan, former California governor and near-presidential spoiler, returns to New Hampshire on Friday to lend his weight to the reelection campaign of Republican Gov. Meldrim Thomson.

Thomson was an early and strong supporter of Reagan's presidential hopes.

The governor joined Reagan several times during the former actors trips through New Hampshire while campaigning for the state's Feb. 24 primary, the earliest in the nation. Reagan narrowly lost the primary election to President Ford.

Reagan will speak at a $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner. The dinner will be preceded by a rally for Thomson's campaign workers.

Storm damages San Joaquin grapes

FRESNO (AP) — An overnight storm dealt a major new blow to San Joaquin Valley wine and raisin grapes already badly damaged by rain earlier, spokesmen said Wednesday.

Rain dropped .07 hundredths of an inch here, taking "another substantial toll" in a raisin crop sliced in half by a storm Sept. 10, said Kalem Barserian, manager of the Raisin Bargaining Association.

His directors, who represent 40 per cent of the area's raisin growers, had offered Monday to sell packers 35 per cent of this year's crop for a record $840 per ton.

However, Barserian withdrew that offer Wednesday. An emergency meeting will be held next week to assess the latest damage and offer another price.

The RBA already had decided to delay setting a price on two thirds of this year's rain-shortened crop until the amount available can be determined more precisely.

Officials originally estimated that the 1976 domestic raisin crop, produced entirely in the central San Joaquin Valley, would approach 250,000 tons. That estimate shrank to between 120,000 and 140,000 tons after the earlier rain.

"With this rain today, that figure will probably be substantially reduced," Barserian said. "I would suspect now it will be February before we really know what this crop will be."

Wine grapes in the peak of the crush period also could be further damaged by this rain.

"The grapes can't take any more rains, that's for sure," said Julio Gallo, president of E & J Gallo Winery at Modesto.

And growers of 18,000 acres of lima beans in Stanislaus County also worried that part of their crop might be ruined. Farm advisor Gene Stevenson said three fourths of the crop has been cut and could be damaged.

However, officials expected no major loss in almonds and walnuts although the rain delayed harvesting.

The storm caused power outages in various parts of Tulare County and at Coalinga in western Fresno County.

Coalinga bore the brunt of the first part of the storm as an estimated 1.27 inches fell there Tuesday, flooding streets and burning out power transformers.

"The bottom opened up and just fell out," said Altus Kilby, a city public works foreman.

City streets were flooded and residents used about 150 sandbags to keep water out of homes and businesses. No major damage nor injuries were reported, however.

Water bond sale okayed

The Securities Commission of the California State Department of Treasury has approved the issuance of $6.5 million in bonds to allow the Walnut Valley Water District to buy out the Diamond Bar Water Co.

The purchase was authorized by voters last June 8.

Political arena

The Assembly Committee on Revenue and Taxation will hold a hearing Friday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in Ontario City Council chambers, according to Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., vice chairman.

Similar hearings are being held throughout the state to study the issue of property tax reform.

McVittie said property tax reform and relief is one of the highest priorities for the 1977 legislative session.

"It is imperative that we come up with a solution to alleviate the crushing property tax burden which is forcing many homeowners out of their homes," said McVittie.

The hearing is open to the public.

VOTER REGISTRATION SERVICE of the Claremont League of Women Voters will conduct a voter registration drive Friday through Sunday.

On Friday league members who are deputy registrars will be at the GOSH branch of the United California Bank from 10 a.m. to noon, at Danson restaurant from noon to 2 p.m. and at Security Pacific Bank from 5 to 6 p.m.

Efforts will be made to register 18-year-olds at the high school and the colleges, according to Laura Wheeler, voter service chairman.

This year for the first time voters may register by mail. Claremont League will supply the new post card forms.

GOV. EDMUND G. BROWN JR. has signed into law Assembly Bill 3760 by Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., affecting traffic court reform.

The new law will permit traffic courts to accept police testimony by affidavit rather than requiring a personal appearance.

According to McVittie, it will result in considerable savings to taxpayers and will be better use of law enforcement manpower.

ASSEMBLYMAN WILLIAM CAMPBELL, R-64th Dist., said applications are being accepted for 10 participants in the Assembly Fellowship Program for 1977-78.

The fellowship will begin Aug. 2, 1977 and end June 30, 1978. Fellows will receive $764 a month.

The program, now in its 19th year, provides an 11-month working education in the Assembly for college graduates.

LARRY A. BREAZEALE, American Independent Party candidate in the 64th Assembly District said that if he is elected he will take steps to halt the hiring of illegal aliens in California.

"Illegal aliens are taking away at least one million jobs from Americans," said Breazeale.

"The Immigration and Naturalization Service estimates there are between six and eight million illegal aliens in the United States right now, and the number is growing at a rate of well over half a million a year.

"Right now, we have as many illegal aliens in this country as the total of all the legal immigrants we have admitted during the last 25 years."

Breazeale, Whittier, is seeking in the Nov. 2 election the position held by Assemblyman William Campbell of Whittier.

TED SNYDER of Whittier, the Democratic candidate in the 33rd Congressional District race, told the Norwalk Kiwanis Club his election would bring "vigorous and effective representation."

"The incumbent congressman has a record of futility and ineffectiveness," said Synder.

The incumbent is Rep. Del Clawson of Downey.

Summarizing his views on the role of government, Snyder said "we definitely don't need bigger government. We do need better government. We must reduce unnecessary bureaucracy, revise our tax system, coordinate fiscal policy and put our people back to work."

THE COMMITTEE TO RE-ELECT Assemblyman Bill Lancaster, R-62nd Dist., has announced that S.I. Hayakawa, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, will be the guest at a reception Wednesday honoring Lancaster.

The reception will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Hagin in La Verne from 6 to 8:30 p.m.

Reservations, at $20 per person, may be made by calling (213) 967-2116.

SMALL CLAIMS COURT soon may be holding evening sessions because of a bill by Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., which has been signed into law by Gov. Edmund G. Brown Jr.

The measure, Assembly Bill 3885, also increases the claims ceiling from $500 to $750 and provides for language interpreters.

"These reforms have been long overdue," said McVittie. "Now more people should be able to resolve their disputes without having to hire a lawyer or missing a day's pay while they sit in court."

SEN. H.L. "BILL" RICHARDSON, R-19th Dist., Arcadia, is a member of the Senate Elections and Reapportionment Committee which will conduct a hearing Friday at Cal State Los Angeles.

Purpose of the hearing will be to receive testimony from citizens and election experts on bilingual and voter assistance issues.

The hearing will begin at 9 a.m. in Room 313 of the University Union.

JUNE WALLIN of Ontario has been named chairman of the Clyde Stephens for Assembly Campaign.

A 20-year valley resident, Mrs. Wallin has been involved in political volunteer organizations since 1960. This year she served as a Reagan delegate to the Republican National Convention in Kansas City, Mo.

Stephens, Republican candidate in the 65th Assembly District race, will face incumbent Bill McVittie in the Nov. 2 election.

IN TRIBUTE TO this year's Presidential campaign, Home Savings and Loan Association has produced an exhibit of authentic reproductions of historic campaign buttons which may be seen at 85 statewide offices through Oct. 31.

Free campaign buttons will be presented to visitors.

Pins boosting Ulysses S. Grant, William H. Taft, Wendell Wilkie. R. B. Hayes and Woodrow Wilson are among the 75 different buttons in the exhibit.

SPEAKING BEFORE THE CHINO Chamber of Commerce, Clyde Stephens, Republican candidate in the 65th Assembly District race, charged the "incumbent's miserable voting record" is the main campaign issue.

Stephens criticized incumbent Assemblyman Bill McVittie for his approach to crime, unemployment, and the economy.

Stephens proposed programs to "heal California's economy and provide work for the hard-core unemployed."

"It's about time, he charged," for McVittie to start explaining himself to the voters. But unfortunately, no amount of rhetoric can make up for the disaster that he has caused in Sacramento."

Theater closes

The Pomona Fox Theater, which has been offering top motion picture entertainment as well as special shows to the valley for the past 45 years, has closed down.

An official of Mann Theaters, operator of the local movie house, said the closing was temporary and would probably last until Christmas.

Lack of community support was given as the reason for the closing which took place at the end of the Ali-Norton boxing match Tuesday night.

MEETING WITH NUJOMA — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, right, meets with Sam Nujoma of the South-West African People's Organization (SWOPE) at the Waldorf Astoria Towers in New York Wednesday. Nujoma called on Kissinger to support economic sanctions against South Africa because of its refusal to yield control of the territory.

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Assemblyman Ken Maddy says Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. showed a lack of sensitivity by vetoing his bill aimed at relieving Madera County of potentially huge costs of the Chowchilla bus kidnap trial.

Maddy, a Firebaugh Republican, issued his statement Tuesday.

The bill, vetoed this week, would have obligated the state to help all counties which hold trials in which the punishment could be life in prison.
